DESPITE SC ORDER, ARMY SAYS 28 WOMEN OFFICERS 'UNFIT'

A total of 28 women officers have been declared unfit to serve in the Army, with 11 of them set to leave the forces soon

SEVEN OFFICERS MOVE SUPREME COURT

Out of the 28 who were found unfit, seven officers have knocked the doors of the apex court terming the Army order discriminatory. One officer told this paper that the Army is not accepting the same criteria based on which they were given extensions twice earlier. The Supreme Court had given the ruling to grant permanent commission (PC) to women officers in Feb 2020

SO FAR, 424 WOMEN GRANTED P.C.

- Following the SC order, a special board was set up to identify women officers to be given permanent commission
- As many as 615 women officers were considered, of which 424 were granted PC. The results of 77 have been withheld and 28 have been declared unfit to continue

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

TWENTY-three days after taking control of Kabul and promising a broad-based, inclusive and internationally acceptable regime, the Taliban on Tuesday announced an interim government comprising their own men.

Declaring the country an Islamic Emirate, the militia said the new government will be led by Mullah Hassan Akhund, an associate of the movement's late founder Mullah Omar, as prime minister. There will be two deputy prime ministers – the outfit's political head Mullah Abul Ghani Baradar and Abdul Salam Hanafi, a member of the Islamist group's political office in Doha, Qatar. Sirajuddin Haqqani of the dreaded Haqqani Network will be the interior minister, while Mullah Mohammad Yaqoob (son of Mullah Omar), will be defence minister.

Hailing from Kandahar, Akhund served as governor of the province during the outfit's first reign in the 1990s. Baradar was the leader of the Taliban delegation in the Qatar peace talks. Haqqani, a US-designated terrorist, still has a $10 million bounty on his head.

While there was no mention of what role Taliban supreme leader Mullah Haibatullah Akhundzada will play in the government, the secretive leader on Tuesday issued a statement saying the new government will uphold the sharia law.

The announcement of the new government, which doesn't have a single woman member, came on a day when the capital city witnessed huge protests by women denouncing Pakistan's airstrikes in the Panjshir province. Chanting 'death to Pakistan' and 'Freedom', the protesters gathered at the gate of the Pakistani embassy in Kabul and asked its staff to leave the country, local media reported. Taliban gunmen broke up the protests by repeatedly firing into the air and threatening to shoot the protesters. They also detained several journalists covering the protests and allegedly thrashed some of them.

When questioned about the handling of the protests at the press conference to announce the new government, Taliban spokesman Zabihullah Mujahid simply said the demonstrations were illegal.

Farmers begin indefinite dharna

Farmers participating in a protest at Haryana's Karnal on Tuesday before beginning their indefinite dharna | SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT

Talks with Karnal administration fail; action sought against brutal caning on August 28

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

THOUSANDS of farmers on Tuesday laid an indefinite seige around the mini secretariat in Haryana's Karnal city demanding immediate action against officials involved in a brutal lathicharge on agitating farmers on August 28. Three rounds of talks earlier in the day with the district administration failed to resolve the matter, after which farmers marched 5 km to reach the mini secretariat, crossing six police barricades in the process.

Attempts to disperse them at the last barricade using water cannons failed. Till then they were allowed to proceed unhindered. When the march began, senior leaders of the Samyukt Kisan Morcha, including Rakesh Tikait, Balbir Singh Rajewal, Darshan Pal, Yogendra Yadav and Gurnam Singh Chaduni, were briefly detained by the police but let off within minutes.

Indicating the farmers were prepared for the long haul, tents and kitchens quickly sprung up at the dharna spot

Announcing the indefinite dharna, Tikait said, "We will stay put till our demands are met. We want action against IAS officer Ayush Sinha, the then Karnal sub-divisional magistrate (SDM), whose viral video showed him directing the police to brutally lathicharge the agitators on August 28."

Their demands included a compensation package of ₹25 lakh to the family of Sushil Kajal, a farmer who succumbed to his injuries allegedly after the police baton charge, and a government job for his son. As for the other farmers injured in the caning, they demanded a compensation of ₹2 lakh each.

Earlier in the day, a 11-member delegation of farmers held talks with Deputy Commissioner Nishant Kumar Yadav, Inspector General of Police, Karnal range, Mamta Singh, Superintendent of Police of Karnal Ganga Ram Punia and other officials for about two hours. The talks remained inconclusive as the farmers refused to budge from their demands.

Senior farmer leader Balbir Singh Rajewal said during the talks Nishant Kumar Yadav had sought to buy time — as much as a month — to probe if former SDM Ayush Sinha's objectionable words actually led to the police lathicharge. Harinder Singh Lakhowal, general secretary of BKU (Lakowal), said they were always ready for further talks.

Addressing a mahapanchayat at the new grain market, Yogendra Yadav said, "We have come to ask the government which law under the Constitution gives an IAS officer permission to give orders to break the heads of farmers.''

Challenge for Khattar

The focus is now on Chief Minister Manohar Lal Khattar, as Karnal is his Assembly constituency. "The Khattar govt should agree to our demands or else arrest us. We are ready to fill Haryana jails," Tikait tweeted

RSS outfit's turn to hit the streets to support kisans

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

STRIKING a chord with the agitating farmers, the kisan wing of the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh will hold a nationwide protest on Wednesday demanding a law guaranteeing procurement of foodgrains at remunerative prices after realistic assessment of variables like input cost and inflation.

Unlike the Samyukta Kisan Morcha, which has been pushing for total repeal of three controversial farm sector reform laws, the Bharatiya Kisan Sangh (BKS) wants the laws amended to accommodate its concerns. BKS general secretary Badrinath Choudhary demanded that the government come out with a law on guaranteed purchase of foodgrains at remunerative prices across the country. He also sought a mechanism where traders can be registered and on-the-spot payment made to farmers.

"The prevailing situation wherein procurement of foodgrains takes place largely in Punjab and Haryana, must change. Farmers across the country should be able to sell their produce at fixed prices with facility for immediate payments," added Choudhury.

The BKS said any purchase below the fixed price for grains should be declared a crime.

FEAR OF VIOLENCE

Earlier in the day, the Karnal district administration and police issued a statement citing intelligence reports to claim that some anti-social elements had reached the city armed with lathis and iron rods etc. "It does not show good intention. All such elements with be strictly dealt with in accordance with law," the statement read

CAIRN READY TO ACCEPT REFUND, WITHDRAW CASE

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Chennai

UK-based Cairn Energy Plc will drop litigations to seize Indian government properties abroad, including diplomatic apartments in Paris and Air India airplanes in the US, after getting $1 billion refund of retrospective tax collected by the Centre, Cairn CEO Simon Thomson said.

The government had last month enacted a new legislation to reverse the controversial retrospective tax law of 2012, which had led to tax claims worth over ₹1.1 lakh crore against multinational companies such as Cairn Energy Plc, Vodafone Plc, pharma major Sanofi, and alcohol sector firm SABMiller.

The government had already secured around ₹8,100 crore from such companies through a variety of routes. Of this, ₹7,783 crore (of $1.06 billion) was collected from Cairn alone. From this refund, Cairn plans to return up to $700 million to shareholders — $500 million through a special dividend and a share buyback programme worth $200 million. "The remainder of the proceeds would be allocated to further expansion of the low cost, sustainable production base," it said.

Cairn also plans to enter into statutory undertakings with the GoI related to the new legislation. While it admitted that the final form of these statutory undertakings has yet to be published by the GoI, it went on to note that it anticipates that the principal condition prescribed will be the withdrawal of Cairn's rights under the international arbitration award.

Karnataka ups Nipah surveillance at border

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

IN view of confirmed cases of the Nipah virus infection reported in Kerala, the state government issued a circular to strengthen surveillance and preparedness in Karnataka, with special focus on the border districts of Dakshina Kannada, Udupi, Mysuru, Kodagu and Chamarajanagar.

"The arrivals from Kerala should be monitored for symptoms like fever, altered mental status, severe weakness, headache, respiratory distress, cough, vomiting, muscle pain, convulsion and diarrhea. A systematic surveillance system is a necessary method to identify clusters of encephalitis cases, resulting in early detection of Nipah outbreaks," the circular read, adding that suitable samples will be sent to NIV, Pune, for lab confirmation.

Hours before embarking on his two-day New Delhi trip, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai told reporters here on Tuesday that experts have been asked to gather a detailed report on the spread of the Nipah virus.

MEDAL HAUL IN MYSURU

These 3 'Golden Girls' show true grit

Chaitra Narayan Hegde, Vidyashree LR, Madalambike TS, Harshitha N and Sindhu Nagaraj with their medals in Mysuru on Tuesday | UDAYSHANKAR S

KARTHIK K K @ Mysuru

SURMOUNTING hurdles like lack of public transport, disability and financial difficulties, these three spirited "Golden Girls" of Mysore University bagged whopping 31 medals among themselves at the 101st convocation of the university on Tuesday.

Chaitra Narayan Hegde, an MSc Chemistry graduate, Madalambike T S and Latha H N, MA graduates, defied all odds to make it big in their studies.

Chaitra moved to Mysuru University as her village in Uttara Kannada district did not have public transport or good educational institutions. She did her B.Sc from Yuvaraja's College and got a seat for M.Sc Chemistry. She helped herself to 20 medals and four cash prizes, emerging as the highest medal winner in the university.

Madalambike, who comes from Tammdahalli village in Chamarajanagar district, showed true grit in the face of deep personal loss.

Karanth Layout: Reinstate BDA official, says SC

Government had transferred him on Aug 31

S LALITHA @Bengaluru

THE Supreme Court on Tuesday directed the State Government to immediately reinstate a top official of the Bangalore Development Authority (BDA) to the same post he held earlier. Pulling up the government, the apex court pointed out that despite its order barring transfer of those working on the formation of Dr Shivaram Karanth Layout, the State had posted the key person elsewhere.

The official, HR Shantharajanna, who an Engineer Member and number 2 at BDA, was transferred on August 31 and posted as the next Chief Engineer of the Hemavati Project Zone at Hassan. V Govindaraju, Chief Engineer, National Highways, was posted in his place. The New Indian Express reported (Govt thumbs nose at SC order; replaces Karanth Layout Officer) about the State Government's move on September 7, while pointing out that the State could invite contempt of court charges.

The SC bench of Justices S Abdul Nazeer and Sanjiv Khanna, hearing the ongoing case between the Bangalore Development Authority vs State of Karnataka and Others, said,"We direct the State of Karnataka to re-transfer him to the position of Engineer Member, Engineering Section, of the BDA forthwith."

The Court pointed out that Shantharajanna, who was heading the engineering section, was in charge of formation of Dr Shivaram Karanth Layout. "He had filed an affidavit on February 6 before this court in terms of our order dated January 25 indicating the plan of action for the formation of Dr Shivaram Karanth Layout," the bench said.

A BDA source, requesting anonymity, alleged political interference in the Authority by the government. "The attempt to replace an officer well versed with the Layout, who was determined to complete it at the earliest, with an officer of their choice has clearly backfired," the source said. Another BDA officer expressed relief over the order, claiming that "sincere officers of the BDA now have SC to protect them."

The SC-appointed Committee for the Layout, headed by Justice AV Chandrashekhar, had also written to the chief secretary asking him to revoke the transfer order. The bench on Tuesday also permitted BDA an extension of deadline till October 31 to receive applications from revenue site holders. The court directed the Authority to issue certificates to landowners about the 40:60 compensation scheme for parting with their land.

Pothole snuffs out senior citizen's life

BLAME GAME

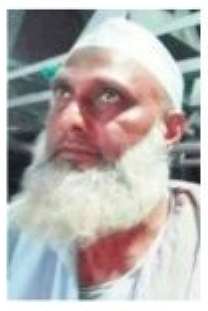
The killer pothole was part of a pit dug last month for underground pipe works, which had not been fixed after work was complete. A BDA engineer said that the road from Manganapalya Cross to Ramachandra Lake was asphalted. "BWSSB wanted to connect two manholes by a drainage pipe. Without taking permission, they dug the road last month and didn't asphalt it," he added. BWSSB visited the spot on Tuesday and repaired the road. BWSSB Chairman N Jayaram refused to respond to calls. Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai said BBMP officials have been instructed to take up work on filling up potholes on a war footing, once the intensity of rain reduces.

MANJU SHETTAR & S LALITHA @ Bengaluru

BENGALURU'S killer roads on Monday night claimed the life of a 65-year-old physically challenged man when his customised three-wheeler bike went over a water-filled pothole on Manganapalya Main Road in Kamakshipalya traffic police limits. The sudden lurch caused him to lose control of the vehicle. He fell, hitting his head on the road, and died on the spot. The deceased, Khurshid Ahmed, was a resident of Bismillah Nagar in BTM Layout.

The accident took place at 8.30pm Monday, just hours after Revenue Minister R Ashoka directed BBMP to fill up potholes on Bengaluru's main roads by September 20, and across the city by the month-end.

A senior police officer said Khurshid was returning home when he failed to notice the pothole as it was dark and filled with water, and did not reduce his speed or try to avoid it. As the vehicle's front wheel went into the pothole, he lost control and fell. Passersby alerted police, and his body was shifted to Victoria Hospital.



Khurshid's relative Ahmed Zubair on Tuesday approached police and alleged that negligence of the authorities was responsible for the senior citizen's death, and demanded serious action against them. Senior police officers inspected the spot and registered a suo motu case against Bangalore Development Authority (BDA) officials, and booked BDA under IPC 304A (Causing death by negligence), an investigation officer said.

Incidentally, police also booked Khurshid for rash driving under IPC 279. His body was handed over to his family after postmortem on Tuesday evening.

Khurshid had got the was riding was given to him three years ago under a special scheme for physically challenged persons for their safe mobility. Jayanagar MLA Sowmya Reddy, expressing shock, said, "He was one of the beneficiaries to whom we had distributed vehicles three years ago. The local corporator and political leaders are equally responsible for lack of maintenance of roads in their wards."

Now only 3-day Ganesha festival in city

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

WHILE the State Government has permitted community Ganesha Chaturthi celebrations for five days, the BBMP and Bengaluru City Police chief have cut the celebrations to three days, keeping in mind Covid-19 and Nipah cases.

BBMP Chief Commissioner Gaurav Gupta and Bengaluru City Police Commissioner Kamal Pant on Tuesday said that this year, the Gowri-Ganesha festival should be a low-key affair and public installation of idols will be permitted only for three days.

Gupta said, "Last year too, permission was given for three days. 'One ward, one pandal' is permitted, and the location will be decided by police, health officials and ward level officers. Idols kept at home should be immersed either in mobile immersion tanks or at home."

Pant said police will ensure that all Covid-19 norms are followed and stern action will be taken against violators.

GUIDELINES

- Last date to seek permission for pandals: Sept 8
- Community idols not more than 4 ft tall, home idols of 2 ft permitted
- Organisers should have Covid-19 negative, vaccination certificates
- One pandal, one ward
- Only 20 people permitted in pandal at a time
- Joint commissioner, health officials and police to inspect pandal location
- No procession, music, permitted at pandals

St John's awards degrees to 120 health professionals

PEARL MARIA DSOUZA @Bengaluru

AFTER a challenging year marked by Covid-19, 120 allied health sciences (AHS) professionals of the Institute of Allied Health Sciences, St. John's Medical College, were awarded their degrees on Tuesday. This year, the graduation ceremony was a low-key affair.

Fifty eight graduates in Medical Technology, 18 in Bachelor of Physiotheraphy, 20 in Master's in Medical Technology, and 24 students with Master's degree in Hospital Administration, were awarded the degree certificates.

Dr V Ravi, Nodal Officer for Genomic Confirmation of SARS-CoV-2-Karnataka and former Dean, Basic Sciences and Professor of Virology, NIMHANS, presented the certificates to graduate and postgraduate students.

Lalikutty T with a degree in BSc MLT and a batch of 2016, was awarded the second rank while, Deepika R was awarded the fourth rank; Priya Seagal, a graduate in BSc MIT, was awarded the sixth rank. Over 50% of graduate and post graduate students scored first classes. Recalling their final year as a "long one", thanks to Covid-19, these students stated that they are out of the domain and will join the fight against the pandemic. Reeya Thampi from the 2016 batch recalled how students donned PPE and joined the fight against the virus.

Kasturi N with MSc in Hospital Adminstration, said that the six month internship "balanced the online classes".

Stating that the online classes in the final year though were challenging, she said that the 1.5 years of offline classes helped them to cope with the situation. Saujanya, a post graduate student in MLT, said that the pandemic kept them on their toes and they managed to balance between Covid duty and online classes..

Anuj, a BSc MLT student said that rural students found it more challenging with limited internet access.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

08th September: It's a Capricornian day, which means that it's the perfect moment for paying attention to other people. I say that because Capricorn is always very practical, and what could be a better way of running our lives than to be fair, kind and courteous to others. Another point to remember is that good actions now attract rewards in the future, sometimes in years to come.

ARIES
(Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
You have by no means passed the point of no return, and there is plenty of time left in which you may take an important decision, especially one concerning your domestic interests. It's possible, though, that events may soon gently force your hand.

TAURUS
(Apr. 21 - May 21)
Your heart says one thing, your wallet another. A business trip may take second place to a romantic flutter. You don't often leave vital business on the shelf, but you should now have the chance to take a break. There is everything to be gained from ventures which are now getting under way.

GEMINI
(May 22 - June 21)
Selflessness is next to saintliness, and one way to exploit current planetary alignments is to get involved in a charitable activity. Certainly, you have much to gain from putting others first and developing the caring, kind and compassionate side of your nature.

CANCER
(June 22 - July 23)
Family responsibilities are on the agenda. Turn your attention to broader issues, including work and business, because a solution which takes all these factors into account will be best for your home life. Give more space to children and younger relations - they need your support.

LEO
(July 24 - Aug. 23)
Serious news may require a quick trip away. You may come to a long-awaited decision and your thoughts will turn to ways in which you can improve your life. Yet, you're just not sure if personal affairs or work should take precedence. According to the Moon, home takes first place.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
The Moon looks particularly intense today, and deep inside your psyche your imagination stirs. If concentrating on professional affairs, please push forward with confidence in your future. If decorating, aim for colourful schemes. If shopping, go for luxuries.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
Matters you are working on now will undoub-tedly require more research. Your ideas are potentially profitable, but it may be best to leave them to gestate until you've laid sufficient groundwork. Firm foundations will give you a solid basis for your adventurous thoughts.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
Your hidden nomadic impulses are starting to come out, but you may be obliged to restrain such restless feelings for the moment. In any case, routine chores will be less tedious than you feared. You may be surprised when family members lend a helping hand.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
A pleasing financial report could start the day on a happy note, but what really matters is your inner life. This is a promising time for romance, for settling final arrangements with youngsters and for travel plans. Do not be drawn into devious manoeuvres and disputes.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
There could be headaches in the short term, and hassles with partners may make you imagine that the world is ganging up against you. Nothing could be further from the truth. Instead, you must accept useful and constructive guidance. Friends, even people you've met recently, could have the best advice.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
A number of your activities are about to reach a successful conclusion, helped by work carried out by others for your benefit. It must be pleasing to know that colleagues are determined to help you out. At work, you'll face up to shifting responsibilities.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Your home may be the venue for a social gathering which could have a helpful spin-off in your work, perhaps through meeting an unexpected guest or forging a potentially useful contact. The Moon's somewhat intense alignments suggest a mystery of sorts - though you might not be sure exactly what!

Public advised to put off travel to and from Kerala

State asks people to defer plans to visit neighbouring state till Oct-end

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka government on Tuesday issued an advisory asking educational institutions and administrators of business establishments to instruct their wards and employees to defer travel from Kerala to Karnataka, and vice-versa, till the end of October. The state has also advised the public to defer plans to visit the neighbouring state till the end of October, if there is no emergency or urgency, with a view to avoid a third Covid-19 wave, in the larger interest of public health.

According to the advisory, experts are of the opinion that despite special measures like seeking negative RT-PCR reports and repeat testing for Covid-19 among those returning from Kerala, "a considerably high number of cases is being reported, especially in Dakshina Kannada and Udupi".

With experts on the Technical Advisory Committee having forecast that the third wave is expected to hit Karnataka between October and November, the government has instructed all administrators, principals of educational, nursing and paramedical institutions, and owners of hospitals, nursing homes, offices, hotels, factories and industries to instruct their wards and employees to postpone their return till October-end.

"They should also be advised not to travel to Kerala till October-end," the advisory added. In the past couple of weeks, 65 students tested Covid-positive in Kolar and 58 in Bengaluru – both in nursing colleges.

DK district on alert over Nipah outbreak in Kerala

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Mangaluru

HIGH alert has been sounded in Dakshina Kannada district which borders Kerala in view of a 12-year-old boy's death due to Nipah virus in Kozhikode.

District Health Officer (DHO) Dr Kishore Kumar said they have issued an advisory to all government and private hospitals and medical colleges in the district to immediately bring to the notice of district administration if they find Nipah virus symptoms like high fever, severe head ache, convulsions and disorientation among patients, especially those from Kerala.

DK district surveillance officer Dr Jagadish told TNIE that so far they have not come across any persons with Nipah symptoms. "Even if we find Nipah symptoms in any person, we will go though his travel history. Samples of only those who have travel history of endemic area will be sent for testing at National Institute of Virology (NIV), Pune.

Antiviral drug may reduce Nipah deaths

"AT the same time, there is vigil on the Kerala state border to check the possibility of the spread," Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai clarified.

The circular issued by the health and family welfare department said that as there is no known treatment or vaccine available, Ribavirin, an antiviral, may have a role in reducing mortality among patients with encephalitis caused by Nipah. Intensive supportive care with treatment of symptoms is the main approach for managing the infection. The district authorities are instructed to send daily reports to the Health Commissioner.

Fatality rate falls to zero in 10 districts

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

TEN districts in Karnataka have reported zero Case Fatality Rate (CFR) in the past seven days, while three districts have recorded less than 1 per cent CFR. The districts with zero CFR are Ballari, Chikkaballapur, Gadag, Chitradurga, Kalaburagi, Koppal, Raichur, Ramanagara, Shivamogga and Yadgir. The three districts with less than 1 per cent CFR are Chikkamagaluru (0.43 per cent), Kodagu (0.47 per cent) and Udupi (0.90 per cent).

Yadgir District Health Officer Dr Indumathi said, "As the number of cases in the districts has been low, the number of deaths has also been low. In August, the district saw only one Covid death. Whenever positive cases are found in rural areas, they are sent to Covid Care Centres, which helps in early treatment of cases. Meanwhile, door-to-door awareness is also carried out for vaccination. People were hesitant earlier, but now many of them are asking for vaccination themselves, and the rate of vaccination is improving in the district."

Six districts in the state have had a CFR between 1 and 2 per cent. Dakshina Kannada, which had been reporting a high number of cases, and high positivity rate, reported lower CFR than other districts, at 1.85 per cent. Bengaluru Urban has seen a CFR of 2.12 per cent.

The districts which showed high CFR in the past seven days are Vijayapura with 16.67 per cent, Bagalkote 20 per cent, Bidar 50 per cent, and Haveri 60 per cent.

A health officer in Bagalkote pointed out that the district has been reporting only one or zero positive cases on a daily basis, and there have been no deaths on many days. "When calculating the CFR, the total positive cases and total deaths are taken into account, which shows an increase in CFR. However, based on daily records, Bagalkote is doing well and reporting zero cases on many days. The positivity rate is 0.03 per cent."

Pandemic forced govt to upgrade health infra: Minister

Mandya: Minister for IT and BT, C N Ashwath Narayan, on Tuesday said the government is making efforts to set up crucial medical infrastructure in towns and villages so that people need not rush to cities for medicare. Inaugurating the oxygen plants funded by Homable Group at KR Pet and Pandavpura hospitals, Ashwath Narayan hoped that the oxygen plants, which have the capacity to generate 500 litres of oxygen per minute, will help face any eventuality in future. He admitted that the pandemic forced the government to upgrade the health infrastructure across the state. ENS

JDS HOLDS ACES IN HIGH-STAKES KALABURAGI CIVIC BODY

CM says he's in touch with leaders of regional party, but Gowda says no one spoke to him

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @Bengaluru

WITH neither the Congress nor the BJP managing to get a simple majority in the 55-member Kalaburagi Mahanagara Palike election, the results of which were announced on Monday, both the parties are making attempts to woo the JDS, which won four seats. While both parties sounded confident of coming to power, the JDS, whose support will be crucial, has been mum so far.

The four JDS council members will be meeting party supremo HD Deve Gowda and former CM H D Kumaraswamy before a final decision is taken.

The Congress won in 27 wards, the BJP in 23 and the JDS in four while one seat was won by an Independent. The Kalaburagi corporation council has 64 voters to elect Mayor and Deputy Mayor including 55 elected councillors, MPs, MLAs and MLCs. The BJP has 29 votes including 23 newly elected councillors, one independent councillor, MP, MLA and MLCs. Likewise, the Congress has 30 votes including 27 newly elected members, one MP, one MLA and one MLC.

Speaking to reporters in Bengaluru on Tuesday, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai claimed that the JDS has shown interest to work with the BJP in the Kalaburagi civic body.

"I have spoken to the JDS leaders in this regard and they too have expressed their desire to be alliance partners. And it is a good sign", he said, adding that they will make a move on the alliance only after holding discussions with BJP workers.

Meanwhile, JDS supremo H D Deve Gowda said they did not expect even four seats in Kalaburagi. "Congress leader Mallikarjun Kharge has spoken to me as well as to Kumaraswamy. I have told Kumaraswamy to take the opinion of local leaders and proceed,'' he said. On whether the BJP was in touch with him, Gowda said no one had spoken to him so far. "Bommai may have spoken to Kumaraswamy, but not to me," he noted.

On Monday evening, Kumaraswamy had led a delegation of his party legislators to Bommai on the pretext of discussing various issues including the delay in implementation of irrigation projects. The Congress too is sparing no effort. KPCC working president Eshwar Khandre said their party leader Mallikarjun Kharge has spoken to Deve Gowda. "Secular parties will join hands and rule in Kalaburagi. We have won more seats and, in a democracy, it is only fair that the party which has more seats comes to power," he said.

However, the JDS is not revealing its cards just yet. Speaking to TNIE, senior leader Bandeppa Kashampur said that the party leadership will decide on an alliance. "Whatever Kumaraswamy decides, we will go with it. Right now, we have not decided anything,'' he added.

Patil: Sure of getting numbers

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Kalaburagi

CONGRESS leader and former minister Sharanprakash Patil on Tuesday said that with the support of the JDS, his party will get 31 votes, needed for majority in the corporation.

He expressed confidence that JDS will support the Congress and said party leaders were in talks with local and state JDS leaders who were also keen on a tie-up. Since the Congress is the single-largest party, it will win the mayoral polls without doubt, he told reporters, adding that it will not be possible for the BJP to resort to any conspiracy to win the mayor's seat. Patil said that the BJP and the Congress won 10 seats each in Kalaburagi South, but the latter bagged 17 seats in Kalaburagi North to emerge as the single-largest party in the KMP.

Calling his party's performance in the KMP polls better than in the last election, he said that they were able to win four more seats this time. "We did have hopes to win at least three more seats, but could not do it," he added.

Parties start work for B'luru polls

BOSKY KHANNA @ Bengaluru

ELECTIONS to the BBMP Council may not be on the calendar yet, but political parties have begun their spadework, and are getting their strategies ready.

While the BJP is banking on Brand Modi, the Congress leadership has directed party workers and aspirants to stay close to the ground, and be in touch with the hoi polloi.

"Modi is the brand name for elections, including corporation elections. So far, nothing has been decided on how to contest the polls, but it will done under the leadership of Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai and Revenue Minister R Ashoka. They will be the face of elections in the city," said a BJP corporator. He added that the party had nothing to worry about, as everything would be under control.

The Congress, meanwhile, is working under the guidance of Opposition leader Siddaramaiah and KPCC president DK Shivakumar. They have directed former corporators and MLAs to mingle with the masses and implement their Abhaya Hasta scheme, under which all economically weak sections affected by the pandemic are given ration, medicines and financial assistance.

"We have been told to work on the ground and become a recognised face among citizens. Those who have not performed will be replaced with new faces in the upcoming elections. Though the matter is still in court, work has started to strengthen the party from the grassroots level," said a Congress leader.

Former Janata Dal corporators are adopting the wait-and-watch policy, while new parties like the Aam Aadmi Party and Bengaluru Nava Nirmana are taking up citizens' issues and staging protests to gain popularity.

"We have 12 constituencies in Bengaluru and are working on them, so that we don't lose these seats. Nothing has yet been decided on a coalition with the JDS or any other party. But for a majority, it is the final step. Since the BBMP administration has suggested that elections are scheduled for December, time is only ticking," a former Congress corporator said.

Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai calls on Union Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman in New Delhi on Tuesday | SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT

FUELLING speculation regarding expansion of his cabinet to fill four vacant berths, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai, who arrived in New Delhi on Tuesday on a two-day visit, said that he will try to meet BJP national president J P Nadda and discuss the issue. Nadda was expected to participate in the wedding reception of Union Minister Pralhad Joshi's daughter on Tuesday evening.

His statement assumes significance as several aspirants are pinning their hopes on the outcome of the CM's trip ahead of the 10-day Assembly session which begins on September 13.

Earlier in the day, he met Union Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman and sought assistance to implement various Centrally-sponsored schemes in Karnataka. "The FM has promised to instruct the Small Industries Development Bank of India (SIDBI) and NABARD, the nodal agencies for funding MSME projects in Karnataka. When the schemes are implemented, she will personally inaugurate them,'' Bommai told reporters.

The state plans to implement the One-District-One-Product scheme on a big scale to help skilled workers, women entrepreneurs from the Scheduled Castes and Self Help Groups (SHGs) which generate jobs, besides promoting entrepreneurship, the CM explained. "The state's financial situation and GST dues were also discussed in the meeting," he added, but did not divulge whether the FM promised to release the state's share.

The CM also presented a memorandum to Railway Minister Ashwani Vaishnaw later in the evening regarding projects which were announced in the past, but did not take off due to various reasons. He mentioned the Bengaluru suburban railway network, for which administrative approval has been given, the Hubballi-Ankola line, which has been put on the backburner due to legal issues despite a new DPR being prepared. The CM also brought to the notice of the minister the long-pending demand for setting up a railway division in Kalaburagi to boost economic activities in the region.

On Wednesday morning, the CM is scheduled to meet Road Transport and Highways Minister Nitin Gadkari to discuss National Highway projects which are ongoing in Karnataka. He will also meet Housing and Urban Affairs Minister Hardeep Singh Puri with regard to housing schemes and expansion of the Metro project.

Cong to take up price rise, law & order in session

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Opposition Congress will take up the problems faced by people due to the increase in prices of essential commodities, the law and order situation and various other issues, during the state legislature session starting from September 13.

The Congress Legislature Party (CLP) meeting on Tuesday, chaired by Opposition Leader in the Assembly, Siddaramaiah, discussed issues to be taken up during the 10-day session.

Explaining the issues that need to be discussed, the former CM said people are suffering due to the increase in prices of essential commodities and members must take it up during the session. "The law and order situation in the state is deteriorating, crimes are increasing, corruption is rampant, the financial condition of the state is not good and there is no money for new schemes announced after Basavaraj Bommai took over as Chief Minister," he said.

Congress members will also take up the issue of delay in giving compensation to people hit by floods. Siddaramaiah said that compensation for houses damaged in last year's floods is yet to be given and people are yet to get Rs 1 lakh Covid compensation announced by the government.

Implementation of the National Education Policy (NEP) will also be taken up in the Assembly and Council. The Congress is opposing the implementation of the NEP. "The State Government is implementing it without any discussions with stakeholders. The Centre should have discussed it with the CMs before taking the decision to implement it," he said.

State Congress president D K Shivakumar, Opposition Leader in the Legislative Council, S R Patil, KPCC working presidents and senior leaders and legislators attended the CLP meeting.

'Bommai to lead BJP poll charge'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Mysuru

Higher Education Minister Dr C N Ashwath Narayan on Tuesday said that the BJP will fight the 2023 Assembly elections under the leadership of Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai.

The minister was responding to a query on Union Home Minister Amit Shah's announcement that Bommai will lead the party's poll charge.

Narayan said that it is a practice that the party in power faces elections under its Chief Minister. "It is obvious that the Chief Minister will lead from the front. The state BJP is led by the Chief Minister and party state president Nalin Kumar Kateel," he said, adding that it is premature to discuss the leadership issue now as the party top brass will take a call on it.

Minister to go on temple tour soon

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

ENDOWMENT Minister Shashikala Jolle will embark on a state-wide tour of temples under her department after the end of the legislature session.

She will also interact with devotees and hear their grievances on issues like lodging, drinking water, toilets and roads among others.

The minister had recently held a meeting with department officials. The legislature session is scheduled to be held from September 13 to 24. Sources in the minister's office said that she will visit temples in Dakshina Kannada.

As many as 34,559 temples come under the Muzrai Department, of which 175 are Class-A (annual revenue of over Rs 25 lakh), 163 are Class-B (Rs 5-25 lakh) and 34,221 are Class-C (less than Rs 5 lakh). About 50,000 archaks, pradhan archaks, Group C and D employees work in these temples, but are not considered government employees. Their salaries are paid by the respective temple trusts.

"The minister will also interact with the administration. In many temples, there are no boards to highlight that the property belongs to the government. There are encroachments which need to cleared. The local authorities will be informed about this," sources said.

There is also shortage of staff in many temples, an issue the minister is expected to look into. She is expected to submit a report to Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai.

No confusion on caste census: Minister

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

SOCIAL Welfare Minister Kota Srinivas Poojary on Tuesday said there was no confusion in the government regarding the caste census report, and added that the state cabinet will look into it after the Backward Classes Commission submits it to the government.

Speaking to media persons, the minister said that the caste census was undertaken at a cost of Rs 162 crore when Congress leader Siddaramaiah was chief minister and he should explain why it was not released during his tenure.

"Backward Classes Commission chairman Jayaprakash Hegde stated that the member-secretary of the commission had not signed the report and they needed time to look into it," the minister said adding that after the commission looks into it and submits it to the government, the cabinet will take a call. "There is no confusion amongst us and we are not responsible for any confusion that was there earlier," the minister said.

The government is working to provide all basic amenities, houses, drinking water, electricity and property documents to around 1.27 crore people from the Scheduled Castes, he added.

Farmers' body says cane pricing unscientific, warns of protest

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

SUGARCANE farmers in the state are demanding that the government increase the Fair and Remunerative Price (FRP) for the produce, failing which they will launch a protest.

Speaking to media persons in Bengaluru, Karnataka State Sugarcane Farmers' Association president Kurubur Shantakumar termed the government's decision to increase the FRP by Rs 50 per ton as unscientific, and accused it of coming under pressure from sugar factories.

Fuel and domestic gas prices have increased three to four times in a year, but the government increased the FRP on sugarcane only Rs 50 per ton and that too after three years, he said.

He urged the government to revise the FRP and fix the price by including Rs 3,200 as cost of production per ton. "If the government fails to do so, over 25 lakh farmers in the state will picket the Vidhana Soudha in Bengaluru," he said and gave the state one month's time to consider their demand.

Sugarcane farmers are not getting a good yield, there is also delay in getting money from factories and they are also facing injustice in fixing prices, he said. The government has also not taken any measures to share the profits from ethanol sale with farmers as the government has come under pressure from sugar factories, he said.

Farmers in Karnataka are extending support to the Samyukta Kisan Morcha's call for bandh on September 27. Farmers' associations in the state will soon hold a meeting to discuss the details on staging a protest against the increase in fuel and fertilizer prices as well as demand implementation of irrigation projects, he added.

No hike in airport user fee for now

Airports Economic Regulatory Authority allows hefty increase from April next year

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

REFUSING to give permission for any immediate big hike in User Development Fee (UDF) sought by the operator of Kempegowda International Airport (KIA), tariff regulator Airports Economic Regulatory Authority of India (AERA) has ordered that status quo be maintained until March next year. From April 1, 2022, it has permitted a steep hike in fee at the airport.

The present fee of Rs 184 for departing domestic passengers and Rs 839 for departing international passengers will continue even after October 1, 2021, when the Third Control Period (2021-2026) for Bengaluru airport begins.

From the the next financial year, Rs 350 will be for domestic passengers and Rs 1,200 for international passengers, and stay in effect till end of March 2023. It will subsequently increase in a graded manner through the Control period.

In the first week of July, AERA had proposed hiking user fee from October 1, and put up its proposal on the website, inviting comments. It now appears that the proposal met with stiff opposition from its stakeholders, forcing it to delay the hike.

It had proposed revision of UDF to Rs 450 from Oct 2021 to March 2023, Rs 550 from April 2023 to March 2024 and Rs 555 from April 2024 to March 2026 for domestic passengers. It has also proposed a hike of Rs 1,350, Rs 1,650 and Rs 2,220 during the respective phases for international passengers.

Airport operator Bangalore International Airport Limited (BIAL) has expressed disappointment over AERA's tariff decisions.

A BIAL spokesperson told The New Indian Express, "For 11 years, BIAL has reinvested its earnings to fund this capacity enhancement, hoping to provide strong earnings to shareholders once the project is completed. It is, therefore, very disappointing to receive a tariff order which is likely to be seriously inadequate to meet our cash flow requirements and will also pose a challenge when it comes to meeting operational expenses."

This is further exacerbated by the fact that during the period of recovery of this investment, traffic is at its lowest as a result of the ongoing pandemic.

Following plaints, ACB raids Labour Department office

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

FOLLOWING complaints that the officials of the Labour Department were allegedly indulging in corruption through touts, officers of the Anti-Corruption Bureau (ACB) raided Karmika Bhavan on Bannerghatta Road and conducted a search and seizure operation, on Tuesday.

An ACB official said that there was information that the Labour Department officials, through middlemen, indulged in corruption by issuing notices to commercial establishments that fall under their jurisdiction. "The officials gathered information through middlemen about businesses like factories, security agencies, hotels, interior design firms, and companies that provide construction workers. Later, they would go to those places and issue notices citing various violations. They pocketed money from the owners threatening legal action against them. Following the information, the Office of the Assistant Labour Commissioner-2 and Labour Inspectors of various circles were raided and searched," an official said.

Sources said that the raids began at around 2 pm and went on till the night. Unaccounted cash worth Rs 1.54 lakh has been uncovered during the raids and it is learnt the ACB officials are questioning a few Labour officials.

Do not permit statues at public utility places, HC tells State

Justice RB Budihal appointed KAT Chairman

Justice RB Budihal, former judge of the Karnataka High Court, has been appointed as Chairman of the Karnataka State Administrative Tribunal (KAT), for a period of four years from the date of assumption of charge, or till the attainment of 70 years of age, or until further orders, whichever is the earliest. The Ministry of Personnel, Public Grievances and Pensions, issued a notification on Tuesday, appointing Justice Budihal, following President's consent.

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Tuesday directed the state government not to grant permission for installation of statues, or for construction of structures, on public roads, pavements, sideways and other pubic utility places.

A division bench of Acting Chief Justice Satish Chandra Sharma and Justice Sachin Shankar Magadum passed the order after quashing the permission granted by the state and Mysuru City Corporation in 2017 for installation of a statue of Sri Shivaratri Rajendra Mahaswamy at the Gun House Circle near the Mysuru Palace. The Supreme Court has categorically directed state governments not to grant permission for installation of statutes on public roads. Therefore, the question of permitting the state and MCC to install a statue does not arise, the court said, while allowing a public interest litigation filed by the Akhila Bharatha Kshatriya Mahasabha and Karnataka Raya Arasu Sangha.

No question of interfering in Cauvery Calling, says court

ENS @Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Tuesday dismissed a public interest litigation filed by an advocate against the Cauvery Calling project of Isha Outreach, a branch of the Isha Foundation. Later, the court took it up as a suo motu petition.

In the judgment, a division bench of Acting Chief Justice Satish Chandra Sharma and Justice Sachin Shankar Magadum said afforestation is necessary and such activities require appreciation instead of preventing those carrying out such projects.

During the arguments, the court had asked the government advocate to bring to its notice any statutory provision that restrains an individual/citizen of India to plant a tree on government land. The government, however, did not bring up any such law.

The court said planting trees on barren government land is not a crime, though Isha Outreach is not planting a single tree on government land.

"The categorical stand of the state government is that Cauvery Calling is not their project and planting of saplings is not being done on government or public land. The question of interference by this court in a noble project like Cauvery Calling does not arise," it observed.

The court said petitioner AV Amarnathan has filed the PIL with vested interest and he is a chronic litigant.

Amicus Curiae BV Vidyulatha argued that the petition mentioned that Rs 42 per sapling was collected to plant around 253 crore trees, which amounts to Rs 10,626 crore and money should not go unaccounted for.

Senior counsel Uday Holla argued that Rs 42 per plant is collected by a public charitable trust and everything is accountable.

State relaxes night curfew guidelines, to reopen colleges in a phased manner; restrictions on dine-in to continue

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@T'Puram

IN WHAT is seen as a sign of return to normalcy after months of Covid-induced restrictions, the state has decided to open up, though in a phased manner. Total lockdown on Sundays and night curfew, which were widely criticised as being impractical, have been withdrawn on the basis of the recommendations of the expert committee on Covid. However, dine-in restrictions in hotels and restaurants have not been lifted despite repeated requests by the hotel industry and the public.

To the state's relief, the test positivity rate has been coming down steadily in the last seven days. While it stood at 18.76% on September 1, Tuesday recorded 15.87%.

A crowded market, bustling with traders and customers in Kochi, just before lockdown was announced in the state due to the second wave | ALBIN MATHEW

Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan said the Covid vaccine has protected people from serious illnesses and has also reduced the chances of hospitalisation and death, prompting the expert committee to recommend gradual easing of restrictions. However, he urged people to exercise caution as the highly contagious Delta variant is still active.

Residential training centres, with students who are 18 years or above, will be allowed to function in a bio-bubble mode. However, the teachers, non-teaching staff and students should have taken at least one dose of Covid vaccine.

Higher education institutions will reopen from October 4 for final-year degree and PG students. However, the teachers, staff and students should have taken at least one dose of the vaccine. The first dose vaccination should be completed by this week and those eligible for the second dose should take it immediately, the chief minister said.

Stressing the importance of academic activity for students in Class 10 and 12, the CM asked school teachers to complete their vaccination by this week. His emphasis on classes 10 and 12 is being seen as a precursor to the reopening of schools for students of higher classes at a later stage.

Pinarayi said even though it is for the Centre to decide on the duration between two doses of Covid vaccine, the state agrees with the High Court verdict that the interval between two doses of Covishield vaccine should be four weeks.

The CM announced the total number of vaccine doses administered (first and second) in the state has crossed three crore.

Big relief: 10 suspected Nipah cases test negative

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Kozhikode

IN a huge relief to the already exhausted healthcare system of the state, the samples of 10 suspected Nipah cases have tested negative. These are the people who closely interacted with the 12-year-old boy who died due to the infection on Sunday.

Eight results came from National Institute of Virology (NIV), Pune in the wee hours of Tuesday and the rest was tested at the newly setup point of care lab at Kozhikode Medical College Hospital (KMCH).

"It's big relief. We are expecting three more results from KMCH," said state Health Minister Veena George on Tuesday. Only initial screening is being conducted at the lab at KMCH. If the result is positive, the sample will be send to Pune for the final confirmation.

Among the high-risk contacts who were shifted to KMCH, 31 are from Kozhikode district, four from Wayanad, three each from Kannur and Malappuram and one each from Ernakulam and Palakkad. All of them are isolated at the Nipah block.

Meanwhile, the team from National Centre for Disease Control (NCDC) continued tracing the source of infection at Pazhoor and nearby areas on Tuesday also. Another team of animal husbandry department was also in the field. The second team collected samples of 24 goats from 24 households within one kilometre radius of the house of the deceased boy.

The entire Chathamangalam gram panchayat and three kilometre radius of Pazhoor has been shut down completely.

ACB gets one month for report on Sasikala's treatment in jail

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

GRANTING a month's time to the Anti Corruption Bureau (ACB) to submit report on the investigation into the FIR registered over alleged preferential treatment to VK Sasikala, aide of former Tamil Nadu Chief Minister J Jayalalithaa, at the central prison in Bengaluru, the Karnataka High Court on Tuesday said that the secretary of the home department should be present before the court on October 8, the next date of hearing, if ACB fails to meet the deadline.

A division bench of Acting Chief Justice Satish Chandra Sharma and Justice Sachin Shankar Magadum passed the order during the hearing of a public interest litigation (PIL) filed by social worker and educationist KS Gita (65) from Alwarpet, Chennai.

When the matter was taken up for hearing, they had said that two month's time is required to submit the report before the jurisdictional court on the investigation.

The court said that it failed to understand why two month's time is required as all the offices are located in Bengaluru itself. The necessary orders for sanction can be obtained in a day if there is a will to obtain orders in the matter.

KSRTC to operate 1,000 extra buses

ENS @Bengaluru

DAYS after the state government gave citizens the go-ahead to conduct public celebrations of the Gowri Ganesha festival, Karnataka State Road Transport Corporation (KSRTC) made arrangements to operate 1,000 extra buses in addition to the existing schedules from September 8 to September 9. Later, special buses will be operated intra and inter-state to Bengaluru on September 12, for people to return.

Special buses will be exclusively operated from Bengaluru Kempegowda Bus Station to Dharmastala, Kukkesubramanya, Shivamogga, Hassan, Mangaluru, Kundapura, Sringeri, Horanadu, Davangere, Hubballi, Dharwad, Belagavi, Vijayapura, Gokarna, Sirsi, Karwar, Raichur, Kalaburagi, Ballari, Koppal, Yadgir, Bidar, Tirupati, and other places. Special buses from Mysuru Road Bus Station will be exclusively operated towards Mysuru, Hunsur, Piriyapatna, Virajpet, Kushalanagar, Madikeri.

All premier special buses will be operated from BMTC, Bus station Shanthinagar (TTMC) to Madurai, Kumbakonam, Trichy, Chennai, Coimbatore, Tirupati, Vijayawada, Hyderabad and other places in Tamil Nadu and Andhra Pradesh/Telangana state.

In addition to the above, special buses will be operated from all taluk/district bus stands in the jurisdiction of KSRTC.

Passengers can book tickets online. Advance reservations of tickets for the special and scheduled buses can be booked through 685 counters in Karnataka and other states. A discount of 5 per cent will be extended if four or more passengers book tickets together and 10 per cent if both up and down tickets are booked simultaneously.

SOON after Madalambike registered for MA Kannada exam, her father passed away. She did not lose heart, studied hard and bagged 10 gold medals and four cash prizes.

Latha HN, who is visually challenged, faced problems in getting access to Braille texts and scribes to write the exams. But she soldiered on to bag a gold medal in MA Kannada. Aware of the poor financial condition of her family, this youth from Handithavalli village in Periyapatna taluk, completed her postgraduate course with scholarships.

All the three come from families of farmers and from remote, rural pockets of the state.

"Lack of of public transport buses made me shift to Mysuru for my studies. Though I never expected to bag medals, I think I did 'smart' work, which helped me achieve this," said Chaitra, who is working as an assistant professor now.

"Considering the financial condition of my family, I wanted to opt for distance education to complete my masters. But my elder sister and parents encouraged me to take up a regular degree. My father was happy when a girl from a neighbouring village got a medal. I too had decided that I should reward him with a medal. Today, I have got 10 medals, but I feel sad that my father is not here to see this," said Madalambike, who is preparing for NET exams.

Latha said that screen recording software and other tools helped her, though she faced problems in getting access to audiobooks, especially of Kannada texts. "The encouragement from my parents, my younger sister and my teachers helped me bag the medal. I have cleared TET and NET exams and looking for opportunities to work as an assistant professor. I also want to train other visually challenged students who aim for competitive exams," she said.

Excise dept to promote 40 deputy superintendents

BALA CHAUHAN @Bengaluru

THE State Excise Department is likely to become top heavy with the government reportedly proposing to create 40 posts of Additional Deputy Commissioners Excise (ADEs).

According to informed sources, who did not wish to be named, the Departmental Promotion Committee (DPC) is likely to meet at 3 pm on Wednesday at Vidhana Soudha regarding the promotion of 40 deputy superintendents of Excise as ADEs. "The creation of new posts was reportedly recommended by a committee comprising senior excise officers and an IAS officer from the Finance Department, as a member. The committee met on August 31, September 3 and 6 and came out with the proposal," said sources. The objective behind creating additional top posts in the department at a time when the State exchequer is hard-pressed for revenue is however not clear.

Representatives of the wine and liquor retailers association are likely to meet Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Thursday after his return from Delhi to raise their concerns about the new posts. "There are already enough posts of officers in the department to keep a check on any illegal activities. What is the need to make the Department top heavy," asked one of the association members.

The State Excise Department was trimmed after the abolition of arrack on July 1, 2007. The then chief minister HD Kumaraswamy of JDS-BJP coalition government had subsequently abolished the post of superintendents following the arrack ban and had set up the Excise and Lottery Prohibition Wing to control the menace of seconds, thirds and illicit liquor and single-digit lottery.

Life convict on laundry duty escapes

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@T'Puram

A 48-year-old Tamil Nadu native, who was sentenced to life imprisonment in a murder case, escaped from the Poojappura Central Prison on Tuesday. Jahir Hussein, a native of Thoothukudy, escaped from the prison while he was on laundry duty.

The power laundry unit is situated outside the prison wall and Jahir and another prisoner were taken out of the jail to the place by 7.30am. A jail warden also accompanied them. Jahid reportedly fled the place when the warden and the other prisoner went to fetch their breakfast.

Prison sources said Jahid has been working in the laundry section for the past three years.

"He has never misbehaved with anyone or showed any signs that he wanted to escape. The jail staff had full confidence in him and hence, he was left alone while the warden and the other prisoner went to fetch breakfast," said prison sources.

Don't use photos of CM on textbooks, bags: Madras HC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Chennai

THE Madras High Court on Tuesday said public funds cannot be misused to print photographs for the personal interests of any politician, especially on textbooks, bags, and other educational materials. The State should ensure that such practice is not continued in the future, the court said.

The first bench of Chief Justice Sanjib Banerjee and Justice PD Audikesavalu made the observation on a PIL moved by one Oveyam Ranjan. The petitioner sought a direction to the State government to utilise the unused stock of text books and other stationery materials like crayons, colour pencils, and school bags, which carried the photos of former chief ministers.

"Thankfully, it is submitted by the Advocate-General that a statement was recently made on the floor of the Assembly that the present dispensation will ensure that school bags, textbooks, and stationery bearing the photographs or other signs of previous chief ministers will continue to be used till exhausted, so as to not waste money already spent," the court said. It is also submitted that the Chief Minister does not desire his photographs on such materials anymore.

GRACEFULLY REFUND ILLEGAL RETRO TAX LEVIES

Red tapism is a bane this country can't seem to get rid of. Often, the rules we make to smoothen a thorny issue become the stumbling block. After the pushback against the government's retro taxation on Cairn Energy, Vodafone PLC and others, the Union government saw the light and reversed the tax rule by enacting the Taxation Laws (Amendment) Act, 2021. However, the tax department has now framed draft rules that threaten an amicable settlement. Among these is the department's demand that the companies must give an irrevocable undertaking withdrawing all legal cases against the government, and undertake not to pursue any cases in future. The companies have pointed out that the rules put the onus of settlement on the companies. For instance, how do they settle frivolous and third-party litigation?

A flawed tax rule had been used over a decade to impose a retrospective capital gains tax cumulatively amounting to ₹1.1 lakh crore on 17 entities, including ₹10,247 crore on Cairn and ₹22,100 crore on Vodafone. Cairn and Vodafone had challenged these before international tribunals and won relief. When the government refused to relent, Cairn Energy had begun proceedings to seize Indian government assets abroad and even succeeded in a few cases. Seeing the writing on the wall, the government relented. Unfortunately, it was not the merit of the case but the fear of a backlash from the international business community that led to the government's decision.

Given the history, the onus of settlement is on the government. It was not the companies that brought in a flawed tax rule that allowed the I-T department to go back 50 years and levy capital gains on the companies' Indian assets wherever ownership had changed hands overseas. The international tribunals have also pointed out that these were against the bilateral investment treaties India had signed with the UK and Netherlands. In these circumstances, it makes sense for the government to gracefully withdraw and make amends. Levies that courts in India and abroad have ruled to be illegal should be unilaterally returned without making the victims run another I-T Department gauntlet.

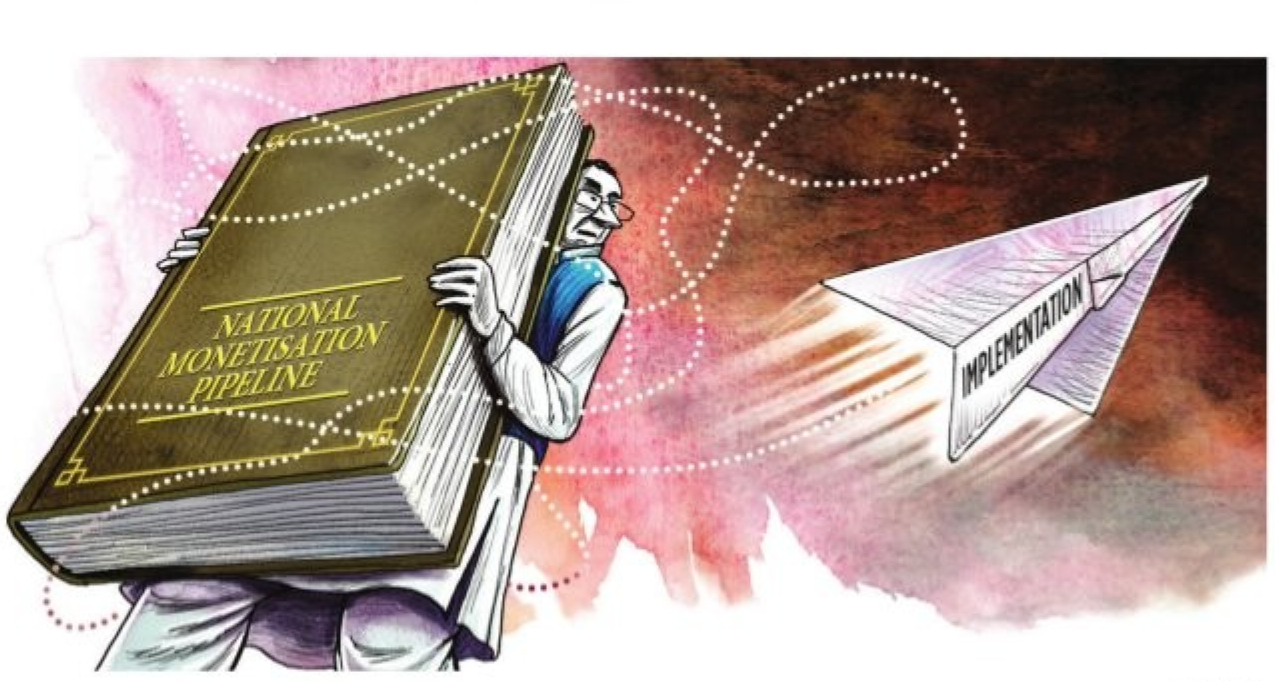
TN SCHOOL INFECTIONS MANAGEABLE SO FAR

Since colleges and schools (for classes 9-12) reopened in Tamil Nadu on September 1, about 20 students and teachers have tested positive for Covid-19. Although parents may find the number of cases among students alarming, it is essential to remember that most of the infections were quickly spotted thanks to vigilant screening at the school level across multiple districts. So far, no school-related cluster seems to have emerged. Further, despite the gradual easing of restrictions in the state, the test positivity rate remains low at just 1%. Similarly, TN's vaccination drive, which initially moved at a glacial pace before overcoming hesitancy but stumbled over supply issues, has finally hit its stride. Over the past week, it has vaccinated about 5 lakh people a day. About 2.9 crore people (around half the eligible population) have received one vaccine dose while 72 lakh have received a second dose. The state has planned a massive vaccine drive for September 12, aiming to inoculate 20 lakh people.

In this context, as experts have pointed out, the social cost of school closures outweighs the risks of carefully opening up. Multiple reports have flagged the inequities of the online education system that passed for schooling during the course of the pandemic. Children reliant on government schools lost out on education, the mid-day meal service and became more vulnerable to exploitation. Many fell into child labour or marriage. However, their access to education can no doubt be imperilled by any laxity on part of the authorities and general public. While cases have remained low in TN for a few months now, infection clusters related to weddings or religious events are still emerging, with rural parts and Tier 2 cities such as Coimbatore being more vulnerable. The state has also rightly prioritised vaccination in nine districts bordering Kerala, which continues to report a large number of cases. It is important to remember that the pandemic is not over and vaccination doesn't guarantee invulnerability. Masking and social distancing must become second nature just as the government should continue to test-trace-isolate-vaccinate. Too much is at stake for us to drop our guard now.

Little attention has been paid to the issue of implementation of the monetisation pipeline. There is also the question of how the proceeds would be spent

THE FLAWS IN CENTRE'S ASSET MONETISATION PLAN



AMIT BANDRE

TULSI JAYAKUMAR

Professor, Economics at Bhavan's SP Jain Institute of Management & Research (SPJIMR)

In a country where infrastructure investment by the government has been the biggest challenge even during stable economic times, the National Monetisation Pipeline (NMP) is definitely well-intentioned in terms of its end objective: to enable "Infrastructure Creation through Monetisation", where the public and private sector are seen to collaborate, "with each excelling in their core areas of competence, so as to deliver socio-economic growth and quality of life to the country's citizens".

A comprehensive review of the asset monetisation plan suggests that the idea itself is meritorious. In a pandemic situation where the government wishes to foster growth, infrastructure investment holds the key. However, the share of capital expenditure in the overall government spending even in the pre-pandemic year FY 2019 was only 12.3%. This share has been budgeted at 15.91% for FY 2022. However, with limits to raising taxes and other receipts, and the need for maintaining the fisc under control, while the government concentrates on providing the much-needed support to sectors most hit by the pandemic-induced economic crisis, getting newer streams of receipts becomes critical.

And this is where the government has used a so-called 'reimaginative approach' to its erstwhile attempts at privatisation as a means of raising finance for funding such investment. With the government retaining ownership over such assets, there is substantial risk mitigation for the private sector, which is no longer constrained by having to invest in long-term capital-intensive assets. Monetisation then appears to be superior to privatisation, more so since the government's disinvestment efforts in the past have hardly yielded the desired positive results. There is also some evidence that such an approach of monetisation has worked in the case of certain assets such as toll roads, transmission towers and the power sector.

The asset monetisation envisaged seeks to move away from an earlier focus on greenfield investments—which have seen little private sector appetite in the past—towards brownfield investments. The Public-Private partnership envisaged in such brownfield investments would benefit from the efficiencies brought in by the private sector. The NMP envisages monetisation of core assets of 13 sectors held by the Central government, with an estimated value of ₹6 lakh crore over the period FY 2022-2025.

The moot question is over the quantum of support that the monetisation is likely to provide, the clarity in terms of its scope and most importantly, its implementation.

Such monetisation, however well-intentioned, is a drop in the ocean. It is expected to finance no more than 5-6% of the capex (of ₹111 lakh crore) under the National Infrastructure Pipeline over the period. More importantly, 13 sectors, each with multiple assets, are sought to be monetised over the next four years—when the government has been missing its disinvestment targets year on year, even when it involves blue chip companies like BPCL.

A greater problem is the lack of clear thinking on some of the deeper issues that may arise as a result of such monetisation. This would get completed over the period 2022-2025, giving private players the rights to monetise these assets over long periods of time—25-50 and even 60 years. Take the case of monetisation of hill /mountain railways sought to be done through the Operate, Maintain and Develop (OMD) based PPP model for a period of 30-50 years, which itself may be extended. While the concessionaire is required to maintain the heritage nature of project assets, they would not just get the right to earn fare and non-fare revenues for 30-50 years through train operations but would also be allowed to charge user charges and sub-lease rights on the station and adjoining real estate on railway land for 30-50 years. This has the potential to jeopardise the rights of the locals living in these areas and cause protests. For instance, despite toll booths being one of the more successful government methods of monetisation, toll collections haven't been glitch-free as has been witnessed in various parts of the country earlier as well. The youth protests against an attempt to collect toll on the Kollam bypass in recent months is a case in point, with the protesters demanding, among other things, that people living in nearby areas be exempted.

There is a larger question of where within the budget will such proceeds from monetisation be accounted for, and how these proceeds will be spent. Would they, for instance, be part of the government's capital receipts? The NMP document does speak about these proceeds being used to finance further infrastructure. "The addition of new/greenfield assets using the funds so raised continues to ensure a significant share of public sector entities in such sectors." There are no specific guidelines/rules, however, on how these proceeds could be used. Could they be used (more importantly not used) for paying salaries, giving pensions and subsidies, etc., thereby incurring revenue expenditure? There is little clarity on the same.

The big miss, however, is the little attention paid to the issue of how the NMP would be implemented, and a clear scenario planning based on the government's experience in disinvestment. The 101-page Volume II document with only one page devoted to an Implementation Plan, in a nutshell, may be the biggest challenge of the NMP.

The monetisation of brown-field assets will need to address the vexatious issues of conceptual and operational clarity, besides a clear roadmap of implementation with scenario planning in place.

(Views are personal)
(tulsi.jayakumar@spjimr.org)

Monetisation appears to be superior to privatisation, more so since the government's disinvestment efforts in the past have hardly yielded the desired positive results. But there is the need to address the vexatious issues of conceptual and operational clarity

WHY DALIT-MUSLIM ELECTORAL UNITY IS A MIRAGE

FAISAL C K

Under Secretary (Law) to the Government of Kerala

Cunningly cobbling caste/religious alliances is the shrewdest move on the chessboard of contemporary electoral politics in India. Uttar Pradesh has probably been the laboratory for formulating and testing new caste/religious equations of political chemistry. Ever since Asaduddin Owaisi's All India Majlis-e-Ittehad-ul-Muslimeen won five Assembly seats in the Bihar elections, talk about an electoral alliance between parties that represent Dalits and Muslims has got a fresh life. The AIMIM and Bahujan Samaj Party (BSP) had joined forces in the Bihar polls and many now say this partnership will extend to Uttar Pradesh, where the Assembly election is due in 2022.

In Maharashtra, Owaisi allied with Prakash Ambedkar's Vanchit Bahujan Aghadi in the 2019 election. The Bhim Army and its chief Chandrashekhar Azad 'Ravan' kindled another hope of Dalit-Muslim unity during the anti-CAA protests. According to the Pew Research Center, there were around 213 million Muslims in India in 2020, 15.5% of the population. Dalits form around 16.6%. In Uttar Pradesh Muslims are 19% and Dalits 20.7%. Together they make up about 40%. A combination of these two sections would be a formidable electoral alliance. Nonetheless, a Dalit-Muslim electoral alliance is only a pipe dream thanks to many socio-political reasons.

A bitter lesson from Jogendranath Mandal: Jogendranath Mandal was one of the founding fathers of Pakistan, the country's first minister of law and labour, and the second minister of Commonwealth and Kashmir affairs. As a leader of the Dalits, he had made common cause with the Muslim League in their demand for Pakistan, hoping that the Scheduled Castes would benefit from it. When rioting broke out in 1946, he travelled around East Bengal to urge Dalit people not to participate in violence against Muslims, as they were perceived to have been as oppressed by the upper caste Hindus. He argued that the Dalits would be better off with the Muslims than with the high caste Hindus; thus, he supported the Muslim League. When the Muslim League joined the Interim Government of India in October 1946, Jinnah nominated Mandal as one of the League's five representatives. The Dalits of Sylhet decided to join Pakistan only after Mandal campaigned there on the instructions of Jinnah in 1947 and convinced the community leaders to embrace the Muslim League.

The story turned sour once Jinnah passed away. In his resignation letter dated 8 October 1950 to Pakistan's prime minister, Mandal protested against the persecution of Dalits and Hindus in the nation. He mentioned incidents related to social injustice and biased attitude towards non-Muslim minorities in the letter. Mandal had to flee to India due to an arrest warrant against him in Pakistan.

He lamented that after Partition, particularly after the death of Jinnah, the Scheduled Castes have not received a fair deal in any matter. "I brought to your notice incidents of barbarous atrocities perpetrated by the police on frivolous grounds. I did not hesitate to bring to your notice the anti-Hindu policy pursued by the East Bengal government, especially the police administration and a section of Muslim League leaders," he stated.

The Muslim community will find it tough to fabricate an organic alliance with any non-Muslim community in India or elsewhere. Dr Ambedkar had pointed out this vital fact: "Hinduism is said to divide people and in contrast Islam is said to bind people together. This is only a half truth. For Islam divides as inexorably as it binds. Islam is a close corporation and the distinction that is made between Muslims and Non-Muslims is very real, very positive and very alienating." (Pakistan or the Partition of India, 1945)

The divide within: Mandal pointed out in his resignation letter that the principal objective that prompted him to work in cooperation with the Muslim League was that the economic interests of the Muslims in Bengal were generally identical with those of the Scheduled Castes. Muslims were mostly cultivators and labourers, and so were members of the Scheduled Castes. Further, he believed that the Scheduled Castes and the Muslims were both educationally backward.

This logic is lamentably incongruous as the Indian Muslim community is only a conglomeration of warring caste groups. Indian Muslims are not a monolithic entity. Each caste among Muslims has distinct socio-cultural and political interests. The presence of caste among Muslims in India has been recognised for a long time. An Arzal Muslim, placed in the bottom of the caste hierarchy, shares more common interests with a Dalit Hindu than an elite Ashrafi Muslim. About 85% of Muslim population in India are Pasmanda Muslims (Ajlaf and Arzal) and only 15% are Ashrafi Muslims. Organisations like Jamaat-e-Islami, Jamyyiyatul Ulama-e-Hind, the All India Muslim Personal Law Board, and institutions like the AMU and JMI are dominated by the Ashrafi Muslims.

Caste and Social Stratification among Muslims in India (2018), edited by Professor Imitiaz Ahmad, is the first of a four-volume series of books on the social and cultural life of Muslims in India. For the first time, it brings together empirical studies of caste among Muslims in different parts of the country. The focus of the papers is on internal as well external aspects of castes. The authors discuss the features generally associated with the caste system among the groups studied as well as analyse their traditional association with a particular occupation, ritualistic and economic obligation, mechanism of dispute settlement, and the nature of relationship between the group and the individual.

The papers dealing with inter-caste relations focus on hierarchical grading to analyse the interactional behaviour of the various groups and studying the principles of social ranking among them as hierarchy is regarded as one of the salient features of castes living in a particular locality. Both the aspects of caste are discussed against the background of the contradictions between Quranic injunctions against any kind of status differentiations and the realities of living in a stratified society.

There is no natural homophily between Dalits and Muslims in Indian politics. Furthermore, the Muslim community is not a compact entity on the electoral chessboard. It has many deep fault lines within. Hence, at the end of the day, a Dalit-Muslim tie-up would remain a castle in the sand.

Jogendranath Mandal was one of the founding fathers of Pakistan, the country's first minister of law and labour. He had made common cause with the Muslim League in their demand for a separate nation, hoping that the Dalits would benefit from it. The story turned sour once Jinnah passed away

Constant vigilance

This is with reference to India & the world need to worry more about terror (Sep 7). An unstable government is likely to evolve in Afghanistan and this can lead to a surge in terrorism across the world. The terrorists will not create problems immediately, but have the perseverance to wait and can activate their sleeper cells at any point of time. So, India should not be lulled by the current peace and be more vigilant.

CM's frequent Delhi trips

This is with reference to CM in Delhi today, will seek nod to fill 4 berths (Sep 7). A lot of time and energy is being spent in streamlining the new government by the present chief minister of Karnataka, as was the case earlier. Visiting New Delhi for the fourth time in the span of little over a month puts the spotlight on dissidence within the party, which needs to be resolved for proper governance of the state.

Great win after humiliation

The fabulous win assumes significance given the humiliating defeat suffered by the team in the third Test. Undoubtedly, it was one of the most authoritative victories in recent times, and the success can be attributed to the cohesiveness, commitment and indomitable will to succeed. The memorable match, besides being remembered for the stellar performances of its prime architects—Jasprit Bumrah and Rohit Sharma—also witnessed the blossoming of Shardul Thakur as an effective all-rounder.

B Suresh Kumar, Coimbatore

Kohli deserves all praise

It was a remarkable team effort. While Rohit hit a century in the first innings, Thakur contributed in both the outings. And all the bowlers performed well. Captain Virat Kohli deserves all praise for leading the team to a decisive victory in the fourth Test at the Oval.

P S Subrahmanian, Chennai

Unfortunate Ashwin

Now that Team India has registered a convincing win against England to go up 2-1 in the five-match series, Kohli might gleefully say that the winning combination need not be disturbed for the remaining Test and ask the unfortunate Ravichandran Ashwin to warm the bench yet again. Only a miracle can take the ace spinner into the playing eleven of the final Test.

S Vaithianathan, Madurai

Kudos to Rohit

India's thumping win comes after a miserable innings defeat in the previous Test. Kudos to Rohit Sharma for his huge contribution with the bat and all the bowlers for their excellent performances.

High caseload persists

That Kerala is home to a good chunk of the Covid-19 caseload (19,688 fresh cases as against the national figure of 38,948 on Sep 6) is a matter of concern. The Central and state governments should leave no stone unturned to arrest and check this trend.

Shot in the arm for vaccine drive

10 crore doses administered in two weeks; over 76% in rural areas; total coverage 70 crore

SUMI SUKANYA DUTTA @ New Delhi

Beneficiaries form queues to receive the Covid-19 vaccine at a healthcare centre in Mumbai on Tuesday | PTI

COVID-19 vaccination in India over the last two weeks have been remarkable for two reasons. Not only were 10 crore shots administered in this period. Over 76% of the total jabs were given in rural areas.

Over the past 12 days, there have been three days when daily vaccination figures crossed 1 crore, indicating that vaccine supplies were getting close to the huge demands of the states. A look at the Union government's CoWIN dashboard shows that between August 24 and September 6, nearly 10 crore inoculations were carried out, of which nearly 7.6 crore were in rural areas — where about 65% of the country's 140 crore people live.

During these two weeks, average daily vaccinations were 71.30 lakh and more than 54 lakh of these may have been be in rural areas alone. The numbers are particularly encouraging given that in May when vaccination opened for all adults, the share of rural vaccination was less than 40%. The new trend is also significant because healthcare systems in villages are inadequate as was exposed during the peak of the second wave in the country.

The deadly surge of infections that overwhelmed hospitals in April-May had also ripped through rural parts and thousands are believed to have died of the infectious disease. A large number of these deaths were not even recorded, as per estimates. Public health experts point out that the rise in vaccination figures in rural areas could also be an indication that vaccine hesitancy and misinformation in rural and non-urban areas might be ebbing.

According to vaccine policy expert Chandrakant Lahariya, as Covid-19 vaccination in urban areas has reached a certain level of saturation and more vaccines are available for states with very high rural populations, the vaccination figures are slated to go up. "That is evident from the high daily vaccinations in states like Uttar Pradesh, Madhya Pradesh and Bihar over the last several days," he said, adding that the vaccination strategy drawn in March-April seems to be finally working out.

For the country as a whole, total vaccination figures reached 70 crore on Tuesday and the Union health ministry said that while the first 10 crore doses were administered in 85 days, the next 10 crore took 45 days. It, however, took less than 20 days for the journey between 50 crore and 60 crore inoculations and only 13 days for the next 10 crore vaccine doses.

Airports witness surge in passengers

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

WITH the festive season approching and countries easing travel restrictions, August saw a surge in the number of passengers travelling through Mumbai and Delhi airports.

Over 1.5 million passengers flew in and out of Mumbai in August, in comparison to 4 lakh who travelled in August, 2020. Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj International Airport had approximately 15,87,150 passengers with flights to domestic and international destinations. Officials said the airport has catered to 14,02,369 domestic passengers and 1,84,787 flew to international locations.

CSMIA registered Goa as the highest travelled destination with 22,078 passengers which was followed by Srinagar, Jammu and Leh during the weekend of August. Moreover, an upward tick in the number of passengers travelling for leisure locally and internationally is expected in the coming months, with festivals and holiday season coming up.

Delhi airport recorded a gradual growth. During the first 10 days of August, around 90,000 passengers travelled through Indira Gandhi International Airport per day. This is five times more than the numbers of mid-May 2021, when Delhi handled around 18,000 travellers per day.

In July, 2021, Delhi airport handled around 2.29 million passengers, which is 60%less than 5.80 million handled in the same month in 2019. Air traffic movements in July 2021, was also 45% less than July 2019.

Unlikely to recognise Taliban, India may continue to engage

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

EVEN as the Taliban announced its government in Afghanistan, sources said India will not recognise the group. However, New Delhi is keen to continue people-to-people ties with the war-torn country.

According to sources, India will remain engaged with top officials of the Taliban. "However, it is very unlikely that we will have diplomatic relations with them," they said and added that New Delhi will not have any physical presence in Taliban-controlled Afghanistan.

In terms of people-to-people contact, sources said, India will continue to receive Afghan citizens coming to the country for medical reasons as well as students after all Indians in the country are evacuated following the resumption of commercial flights from Kabul.

With regard to the number of Indians still stranded in Afghanistan, sources said around 100-150 still remain in the war-torn country. "Most of the 150 Indians are in other provinces and not in Kabul. The ones who were in Kabul have been evacuated. Our goal is to get the remaining Indians to Kabul and evacuate them. We are in touch with partner countries to help keep communication channels with the Taliban open," they added.

India had announced e-visa for Afghans wanting to leave the country following the takeover by the Taliban. Issuance of visas will begin once commercial operations begin in at Kabul airport. Last week, domestic operations at Kabul airport partially resumed after a technical team from Qatar arrived there. Indian investment in Afghanistan over the past two decades is close to $3 billion.

PM bats for equality in education

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE teaching-learning process has to be constantly redefined and redesigned to make the education sector world-class, Prime Minister Narendra Modi said on Tuesday at the inaugural conclave of "Shikshak Parv".

Modi played up the National Digital Educational Architecture or N-DEAR, which he said would play a huge part in bringing equality in education. He likened the initiative to the UPI interface in the bank sector, adding N-DEAR would act like a super connect between academic activities, like the payments interface had revolutionised the banking sector.

Modi invited the private sector to be a part of the changes that the government was trying to bring in education.

He also launched the Indian sign language dictionary (audio and text embedded sign language video for the hearing impaired, in conformity with universal design of learning) and talking books (audio books for the visually impaired).

UP TOPS CRIMES AGAINST WOMEN LIST

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THERE has been a 46% rise in complaints of crimes against women in the first eight months this year, as compared to the corresponding period last year, and over half of these were from Uttar Pradesh, the country's apex women's rights body has said.

Rekha Sharma, chairperson of the National Commission for Women (NCW), attributed the rise in complaints to the awareness programmes conducted by it to promptly report crimes. The Commission received 19,953 complaints of crimes against women from January to August, up from 13,618 in the corresponding period of 2020. In July alone, as many as 3,248 complaints were received, which is the highest in a month since June 2015.

Of the 19,953 complaints, the highest of 7,036 were recorded under the right to live with dignity clause, followed by 4,289 of domestic violence and 2,923 of harassment of married women or dowry harassment. The right to live with dignity clause deals with the emotional abuse of women.

As per figures, 1,116 complaints have been received regarding outraging the modesty of women or molestation, followed by 1,022 complaints of rape and attempt to rape and 585 complaints of cyber crimes. Among states, the highest number of complaints was received from Uttar Pradesh (10,084), followed by Delhi (2,147), Haryana (995) and Maharashtra (974).

"The commission has always made it a point to launch new initiatives to help women," Sharma told news agency PTI. "Keeping in line with this, we have launched a round-the-clock helpline as well to provide support services to women in need where they can also register a complaint."

Akansha Srivastava, founder of Akanksha Foundation which works for education and empowerment by imparting knowledge on cyber safety, said the rise in complaints is due to increased awareness.

BJP confident farm protests won't dent vote bank in UP

MANISH ANAND @ New delhi

WITH the farmers' agitation intensifying, BJP continues to argue that the campaign is politically motivated. The party says there will be not much of an impact of the agitations on upcoming elections in Uttar Pradesh and Punjab. BJP leaders also indicate there will not be any tangible government outreach to the farmers' unions in the coming days.

"There are multiple factors at play in times of elections. The issues being raised by the farmers' unions will be there. There will also be others issues which will influence the choices of the people in the polls. The farmers are also happily accepting the PM Kisan Nidhi installments of ₹2,000 each, besides other benefits," said a BJP national general secretary.

BJP leaders have sought to brand the agitation of the farmers politically motivated, even while the government in the initial phases had engaged them with multiple rounds of discussions on the three laws enacted last year.

"In Punjab, Shiromani Akali Dal (SAD) needs to worry about the impact of the agitations by the farmers' unions. Congress will also have to check the impact on their prospects due to the agitation since the leaders of the unions mostly have Left leanings," said another BJP national general secretary.

However, BJP is watching out for the electoral fallout of the agitations in western UP. Farmer unions held a mahapanchayat in Muzzaffarnagar recently. While BJP's rivals appear to be drawing the conclusion that Muslims and Jats in western UP will bury the ghosts of the riots of 2013 and come together as a collective vote bank in next year's elections, BJP is hoping "other factors" will outweigh the impact of the agitations.

"In times of elections, electoral trends show that farmers don't merely vote on issues concerning agriculture. BJP will seek to come out with a larger narrative to overwhelm the immediate challenges posed by the farmers' unions," said a senior BJP functionary. Incidentally, BJP had been a beneficiary of the Jat consolidation in favour of the party in elections since 2014, with the saffron outfit even blanking out Rashtriya Lok Dal, which had failed to open its account in the 2019 Lok Sabha polls.

Portal for swift redressal of complaints against properties of Kashmir migrants

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

JAMMU and Kashmir's Lt Governor Manoj Sinha on Tuesday launched an online portal for time-bound redressal of grievances related to Kashmir migrants' immovable properties in the Union Territory.

Migrants can log on to http://jkmigrantrelief.nic.in/ or http://kashmirmigrantsip.jk.gov.in to submit complaints. Applications filed will be disposed of within a fixed timeframe under the Public Services Guarantee Act (PSGA) 2011 by revenue authorities.

The Deputy Commissioner shall undertake survey/field verification of migrant properties and update all registers, within 15 days and submit compliance report to the Divisional Commissioner, Kashmir.

The Lt Governor said the initiative will end the plight of Kashmiri migrants including Hindus, Sikhs and Muslims, who have been suffering since 1990s. "I met numerous delegations from across religions in the last 13 months and they unequivocally supported the return of migrants. It is the responsibility of the present to rectify the mistakes of the past. While laying the foundation for a bright future, this is time to heal old wounds," Sinha said.

Kashmiri Pandits migrated en masse from after eruption of militancy in 1990s. Most of them are living in Jammu and some of them have settled outside J&K.

According to officials, about 60,000 families migrated from during the turmoil, of which approximately 44,000 migrant families are registered with Relief Organisation, J&K, while rest of the families chose to shift to other states/UTs.

Congress not to field candidate against Mamata

RICHA SHARMA @ New Delhi

As bypolls approach, Mamata Banerjee posters adorn rickshaws in Kolkata | PTI

KEEPING in mind the possibility of a future Opposition alliance, the Congress has decided not to field a candidate against West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee in the Bhowanipore bypolls in Kolkata on September 30.

Party sources said the top leadership is not in favour of fielding a candidate against Mamata when the Opposition is trying to form a national front against BJP and she is expected to win. During a meeting called by Congress chief Sonia Gandhi last month, Mamata had harped on unity.

The West Bengal unit headed by MP Adhir Ranjan Chowdhury had on Monday said the state unit wants to contest against Mamata and has sent their proposal to the high command. He said that the party is looking to ally with the Left to contest the constituency.

"There has been pressure from the state unit as they want to put up a candidate for the bypolls. They have also conveyed about the thinking of the party high command to contest the seat against the chief minister," said a source.

Sources said the state unit has informed that the Left will contest the seat even if the Congress decides not to. The Left-Congress contested West Bengal Assembly elections in alliance but neither of them managed to win a single seat.

Chowdhury, who had been critical of Trinamool Congress during the Assembly elections, recently wrote to the Bengal CM that their cadres are brutally attacking Congress supporters in Murshidabad district. The Election Commission has announced bypolls for three seats — Bhowanipore, Samserganj and Jangipur — in West Bengal. Counting of votes is scheduled for October 3.

BJP chants Chalisa, namaz room row reaches HC

MUKESH RANJAN @Ranchi

A row over the Jharkhand government's decision to allot a separate room for namaz at the Assembly reached the Jharkhand High Court on Tuesday, with a PIL seeking to quash the notification by the Speaker. Meanwhile, the Assembly was disrupted for several hours when BJP leaders continued to chant Hanuman Chalisa at the entrance of the building.

On September 2, Speaker Rabindra Nath Mahto notified that a room has allotted for offering namaz. Objecting BJP members demanded a separate be allotted to them as well to chant Hanuman Chalisa.

According to petitioner Bhairav Singh, buildings constructed using public funds could not be allotted for religious purposes as such acts violated the principle of secularism and the right to equality. Singh also challenged the notification by Speaker, saying he had no power to allot any room for offering prayers to the people of any community.

Meanwhile, BJP continued its protest inside and outside the Assembly for third consecutive day, demanding the withdrawal of the notification. On Monday, BJP leaders performed bhajan, while on Tuesday they chanted Hanuman Chalisa at the entrance of the Assembly.

> We did not want to recite Hanumna Chalisa at the Assembly as it is a temple of democracy, but we were compelled by the government's action

BJP Legislative Party leader Babulal Marandi said Hanuman Chalisa is being recited to relieve Jharkhand Assembly from trouble. BJP's chief whip Viranchi Narayan, however, said they did not want to recite Hanumna Chalisa at the Assembly as it is a temple of democracy, but they were compelled by the government's action.

Accusing Hemant Soren government of practicing the politics of appeasement, MLA Randheer Singh said they will continue reciting Hanuman Chalisa till the notification was withdrawn.

However, Speaker Mahto defended his action, saying the room has been allotted to members of all communities to offer prayers, and was not exclusively given to Muslims.

Maya woos UP Brahmins with parity promise

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Lucknow

CONCLUDING an over a month-long Brahmin outreach programme, Bahujan Samaj Party (BSP) chief Mayawati on Tuesday said, if voted to power, she would give the community its rightful due, denied by both the current dispensation and the SP.

Addressing a gathering during the so-called prabudhh sammelans at the BSP office in Lucknow's Mall Avenue, Mayawati said, "Brahmins agree that they were better placed during the BSP regime compared to now." She was referring to the Dalit-Brahmin equation that took her to power in 2007. She urged the communities to work together again for an encore.

In an apparent admission of her mistake of embarking on a memorial construction spree during her 2007-12 regime, Mayawati said, if voted to power, she would now focus only on state's development. Giving credit to the Dalit samaj for standing by her side, the BSP chief said she was proud of them as they stayed true even during tough times. "They stood by me like a rock. I hope other sections of society associated with the Bahujan movement will also come along without getting misled," she said. Taking on RSS chief Mohan Bhagwat's Monday statement that the ancestors of both the Hindu and the Muslims were same, Mayawati said if it were so, why was BJP according stepmotherly treatment to the Muslims. BSP national general secretary Satish Chandra was also present during the seminar.

The BSP chief was participating in a party event after a long gap. Through the Lucknow convention, Mayawati sent out a message to the rivals that she could not be written off, observers said.

Satish Chandra Mishra was tasked with holding these conventions for Brahmins across 74 districts of the state. The first convention was held in Ayodhya on July 23.

AIMIM will contest 100 seats in UP, says Owaisi

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Lucknow

AFTER inducting jailed mafia don-turned-politician Atiq Ahmad and his wife Shaista Parveen into the AIMIM in Lucknow on Tuesday, party chief Asaduddin Owaisi moved to Rudauli in Ayodhya, where he said his party was prepared contest 100 seats in the upcoming polls. Owaisi claimed booth-level preparations in the select 100 seats are complete.

Launching a scathing attack on the Samajwadi Party (SP) and the Bahujan Samaj Party (BSP), Owaisi said these regional parties had used Muslims as mere slaves and never accorded them their due after winning elections. Justifying Atiq's induction, he said even BJP leaders had cases against them. "In UP, 37% BJP MLAs have criminal cases. Serious cases have been lodged against 116 BJP MPs, with a majority being cases of crimes against women," he said. "Muslims used to do gulami (slavery) of SP and BSP but when it came to participation, they are forgotten," the AIMIM chief said, adding so far Muslims made others to win polls and it was time that the community began winning polls itself.

Asserting that his party's only motive was to ensure BJP's defeat, Owaisi said he was with Suheldev Bhartiya Samaj Party (SBSP) of O P Rajbhar and other smaller groups of the Bhagidari Sankalp Morcha. On giving tickets to Hindus, Owaisi said, "The OBCs are our brothers, we will give tickets to Dalits also and they will win."

Ministers' J&K outreach from Friday

FAYAZ WANI @Srinagar

TWO years after the abrogation of Article 370 and bifurcation of J&K, over 300 MPs visited the Union Territory in a fortnight as part of an outreach programme to assess the ground situation, review the developmental works and economic activities. Now, around 70 Union ministers are slated to visit the UT starting September 10 to seek feedback from officials about the developmental scenario in the militancy-hit region.

At least 14 parliamentary committees, comprising over 300 MPs both from Rajya Sabha and Lok Sabha, visited J&K to assess the ground situation, review developmental works and economic activities. The members met politicians, DDC members, transporters, hoteliers, traders, tourism stakeholders, civil admin and security force officials to seek their feedback.

Among the MPs to have visited J&K was Lok Sabha Speaker Om Birla. The Lok Sabha Speaker inaugurated the Parliamentary Outreach Programme for the Panchayati Raj Institutions of J&K at Srinagar on August 31. Birla said he would suggest to the Parliamentary Standing Committees to undertake regular study visits to the far-flung areas of J&K to understand the ground realities and possible solutions for mitigation of grievances of the local people.

Sources said eight ministers would be visiting J&K every week after September 10. Sources said Union MoS Prime Minister's Office (PMO) and senior J&K BJP leader Dr Jitendra Singh is coordinating with the Home Ministry to finalise the schedule. They said the outreach programme would last nine weeks.

After their visit, the ministers would submit their reports to the Union Ministry of Home Affairs and Prime Minister's Office for action. Former J&K deputy chief minister and senior J&K BJP leader Kavinder Gupta said the union ministers' visit would help in bridging the gap between the Centre and J&K.

FLOOD RELIEF

Rain ravaged MP seeks ₹2,043-cr from Centre

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bhopal

THE Madhya Pradesh government has sought ₹2,043 crore from the Centre for carrying out relief and reconstruction works in nine districts ravaged by last month's torrential rains and the resultant floods. The state sent a detailed 140-page report to the Centre detailing the havoc wreaked by the floods in August first week.

As per the report, 9,334 people were rescued, 32,960 evacuated and 278 people airlifted by the state police, NDRF, SDRF, Indian Air Force, paramilitary forces and Indian Army columns.

The flash floods damaged 1,874.18 km roads and 1,583 bridges and culverts, 939 village panchayat buildings, community halls and ponds. As many as 1,700 schools and hostels were damaged by the floods. Further, 2,446 urban infrastructure structures, 65 health department facilities and 464 water resources department structures, too, were damaged. The report sums up that 63 development blocks in nine districts were affected by the floods. Crops in 1,14,889 hectare were affected, causing a loss of ₹577.33 crore.

According to sources, while the state government is already carrying out relief and rehabilitation measures from its own resources, an assistance of ₹2,043 crore has been sought from the centre. The centre has also been requested to release ₹728 crore as the second installment for the SDRF.

Nitish says Bihar's loss amounts to ₹3.8 crore

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR
@Patna

THE Bihar government has urged the Centre to release ₹3,763.85 crore to carry out relief works in the aftermath of the statewide floods that claimed the lives of 53 people and affected over 52 lakh people in 24 districts. A six-member Central team returned to Delhi on Tuesday after a two-day visit to the state to take stock of the ground situation.

Chief minister Nitish Kumar said the government was providing all assistances to the victims and is committed to providing adequate crop compensation after the final assessment.

According to an official statement, the Bihar government had put forth a demand of ₹3763.85 crore, including ₹661.16 crore for agriculture, ₹204.14 crore for road construction and ₹1469.99 crore for the water resources departments.

As per an initial report, more than 500 roads were damaged in the floods, besides many link roads. According to N Saravan Kumar, principal secretary of agriculture department, the flood damaged standing crops on 4,91,980 hectares, and the loss was pegged at ₹667.94 crore in 24 districts under 2,588 panchayats as on September 7.

According to officials, the Central team visited many flood-affected districts and reviewed the situation. Based on the assessment, the Centre would release funds.

Pilot's b-day bash adds to Raj drama

RAJESH ASNANI @Jaipur

CONGRESS leader and former deputy CM Sachin Pilot's 44th birthday bash on Tuesday reflected the deep rift within the Rajasthan Congress. Sources said a steady stream of supporters flowing into Pilot's residence sent a strong message to the high command on a day it sought report from the state unit on the shock defeat in the Jaipur Zila Pramukh election.

Sources said Congress' shock defeat was engineered by Pilot loyalist Ved Prakash Solanki, who herded the winner Rama Devi to the BJP stables, helping the saffron party to form the board. Solanki was among the 19 MLAs, who had rebelled against Gehlot last year.

State Congress president Govind Singh Dotasra called Rama Devi's switch to the BJP an act of backstabbing and expelled her for six years.

Even Gehlot was not amused, saying, "The very people who tried to topple the government are now horse-trading." Though Gehlot and many of his loyalists took to social media to wish him, the happenings in the poll have only added to the bitterness.

ULFA okay with Sarma as mediator for talks

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @Guwahati

PROSCRIBED insurgent group ULFA said it would not mind if Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma mediated the possible peace talks with the Centre. "We won't have any objection if the Centre appoints him (Sarma) as the mediator. He is capable. He knows our history and we have seen his courage, honesty and intent towards resolving the conflict," ULFA chief Paresh Baruah told an Assamese news channel recently.

Baruah said if the Centre appointed an Indian (read mainlander) as the mediator, he would not know "our history" and 42-year-old struggle and sacrifices. Baruah acknowledged Sarma's efforts on the ULFA issue and said it had reassured the outfit as well as the people of Assam. He said the outfit was not averse to talks.

"Former CMs, the late Hiteswar Saikia and Prafulla Kumar Mahanta, had made efforts to try and resolve the conflict but the path they had chosen was not correct. Former CM, the late Tarun Gogoi, had also made an effort but did not continue it. Later, his government divided us by adopting the policy of divide and rule," Baruah said.

Since Sarma has made an initiative, Baruah said the outfit was hopeful the CM would be able to convince the Centre. "He knows it is a man-made conflict which needs to be resolved politically. If talks start, the Manipur groups will also come forward," he said.

COVID-DRIVEN CEASEFIRE EXTENSION

The ULFA chief, Baruah, said the outfit had extended its unilateral ceasefire by three months to help the government fight the pandemic and the drug menace. "We thought if we continued our military operations, the law-enforcement agencies would have been busy dealing with us," he added

Kushinagar airport gets proposal from Nepal carrier

Six months after getting the nod from the Directorate General of Civil Aviation to operate international flights, the newly-constructed Kushinagar airport has received its first proposal from the Nepal-based Buddha Airlines to connect the eastern UP district with Kathmandu via Lucknow. The airline submitted a proposal to Kushinagar airport authorities, which referred it to the DGCA for clearance. The airline plans to operate a flight between Kushinagar and Bhairahawa in Lumbini province of Nepal. Air connectivity with Nepal is expected to boost the Buddhist circuit. Tourists from Buddhist nations touch down at Kathmandu airport and then come to Kushinagar by road. Tourists will have a direct flight from Bhairahawa and Kathmandu to Kushinagar.

Book promotion centre turns haven for bibliophiles

The newly-opened Uttar Pradesh Book Promotion Centre (BPC) at Vishwavidyalaya Metro station would be the repository of literary works on history, governance/policy, science, fiction and languages, among others, with a collection of over 2,000 tomes. BPC is set to be a new hub for book lovers in the city. This would be a 'bonus library' for the denizens already pampered with a host of libraries. BPC will offer book lovers a Readers' Corner, Authors' Corners, Young Writers Mentorship Scheme, Panchayat Libraries, Mobile Exhibition Vans and much more in the coming days. It will be home to books in over 55 Indian languages and dialects, on science, social science, art and culture, education, competitive exams and biographies.

No tests for kids returning to schools

Children returning to school after almost 18 months will be eased into school life and no tests will be held in the near future for them. The teachers have been asked to extend 'emotional support' to children attending government schools since classes resumed from September 1. Directives have been issued not to burden children with studies or tests, written or oral, to avoid stress as not only had they been away from studies for long, but they were also exposed to the deadly coronavirus which affected the learning process adversely. The children have to be involved more in activities and games.

Special jab drive boosts fight against pandemic

Special vaccination camps organised at religious places in the city have given boost to the drive. They account for nearly 10% of the 28.2 lakh Covid doses administered in the city so far. There are 19 such special camps, with the highest of 77,156 shots getting administered at the booths set up at Eidgah Aishbagh, followed by Naka Gurdwara (48,520), Chhota Imambara (30,020), Sant Nirankari Bhawan (17,183), Sadar Gurdwara (15,745) and Radha Swami Satsang (6,299). Eidgah Aishbagh was the first to double as a vaccination centre on May 19. People prefer these places because of good amenities.

PROTESTS GROW AS TALIBAN ANNOUNCE NEW HARDLINE GOVT

Scores of demonstrators march, unfurling banners and waving the old Afghan flag in city of Herat; doctor says two people shot dead as militants open fire

KABUL

THE Taliban announced their new government on Tuesday, with a UN-blacklisted veteran of the hardline movement in the top role, after the group swept to power in a lightning offensive which toppled the US-backed president. The announcement came as protests were growing against Taliban rule, with two people shot dead in the western city of Herat on Tuesday, a doctor said.

The Islamists, notorious for their brutal and oppressive rule during their first stint in power from 1996 to 2001, had pledged a more "inclusive" brand of rule as US troops completed their chaotic pullout.

But all the key positions on Tuesday went to core, veteran players in the movement.

Chief spokesman Zabihullah Mujahid told a press conference that the new government would be an interim one, and that veteran official Mullah Mohammad Hassan Akhund would serve as its new acting prime minister. Mujahid also said that Taliban co-founder Abdul Ghani Baradar will be the deputy leader.Mullah Yaqoob, the son of the Taliban founder and late supreme leader Mullah Omar, was named defence minister, while the position of interior minister was given to Sirajuddin Haqqani, the head of the feared Haqqani network who also doubled up as a Taliban deputy.

Shortly after the announcement of the new lineup, Hibatullah Akhundzada, the secretive supreme leader of the Taliban made his first statement since his movement's stunning takeover of Afghanistan, saying that the new government would "work hard towards upholding Islamic rules and sharia law".

> The government — as yet incomplete — will only have an interim role. We will try to take people from other parts of the country
>
> Zabihullah Mujahid, Taliban chief spokesman

Following their 20-year insurgency, the Taliban now face the colossal task of ruling Afghanistan, which is wracked with economic woes and security challenges — including from the Islamic State group's local chapter.

In what appeared to be a fresh sign that the Taliban are seeking to appease sceptics, Mujahid said the government — as yet incomplete — would only have an interim role. "We will try to take people from other parts of the country," he said.

Scattered protests in recent days have indicated that some Afghans do not believe in the Taliban's capacity to translate their promise of a more moderate rule into reality.

In Herat, scores of demonstrators marched, unfurling banners and waving the old Afghan flag — a black, red and green vertical tricolour with the national emblem overlaid in white.

Taliban militants opened fire to disperse the crowds who had gathered to protest against Pakistan — seen widely as a backer of Afghanistan's new rulers. Two bodies were brought to the city's central hospital from the site of the protest, a doctor in Herat told AFP on condition of anonymity for fear of reprisals. "They all have bullet wounds," he said. AFP

TALIBAN'S CARETAKER GOVT

Taliban have taken the first step towards running a functioning government in Afghanistan. Here are the names of the acting members

MULLAH HASAN AKHUND
Acting Prime minister

He's the chief of the Taliban's powerful decision-making body 'Rehbari Shura', and is also the target of UN sanctions

Hasan was personally recommended by Hebatullah Akhundzada, Taliban's chief, as the man to the lead the govt, reports indicate

He was foreign minister and deputy PM during the Taliban's previous govt, but the US thought of him as an unreasonable leader

Mullah Baradar
First deputy

Baradar was appointed head of the Taliban's political after he was freed from a Pakistani jail in 2018

He was the lynchpin of the group from 2001 to 2010. He is now among the top political leaders in the group

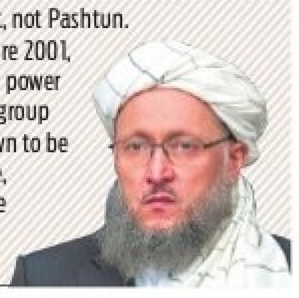
The co-founder of the Taliban oversaw the signing of the troop withdrawal agreement with the United States

Abdul Salam Hanafi
Second deputy

Hanafi, believed to be around 53 years old, also played a key role in the negotiations with the US

He is particular about the social and cultural viewpoints of the Taliban. He was deputy education minister when the Taliban were in power

He is Uzbek, not Pashtun. Unlike before 2001, he now has power within the group and is known to be a moderate, as per some accounts



AMIR KHAN MUTTAQI
FOREIGN MINISTER

Muttaqi had served in the past as Taliban's information as well as education minister

MOHAMMAD ABBAS STANAKZAI
DEPUTY FOREIGN MINISTER

A former official in the Afghan army, he trained at the Indian Military Academy in Dehradun in the 1980s

Recently, he released a statement saying the Taliban wanted to maintain "good relations" with India

SIRAJUDDIN HAQQANI MINISTER OF INTERIOR

This is a controversial appointment, as Sirajuddin Haqqani, the leader of the dangerous and powerful Haqqani network, will now be responsible for police and security

Haqqani, thought to be 45 years old, has a $5 million American bounty on his head. The Haqqani network has assassinated top Afghan officials in the past

MULLAH YAQOOB
DEFENSE MINISTER

Yaqoob heads the group's influential military commission. He is believed to be little more than 30 years old

Yaqoob's father Mullah Omar enjoyed cult-like status as the Taliban leader and co-founder, and that potent lineage makes Yaqoob a unifying figure in the movement

But his exact role wasn't very clear until now, given his official status in the caretaker government

Afghans with valid visas, passports can take evacuation flights: Taliban

China calls report of Taliban's plan to hand over airbase to it 'fake news'

Beijing: China Foreign Ministry spokesman Wang Wenbin, when asked by reporters, on Tuesday termed as 'pure fake news' a report that the Taliban plans to hand over Afghanistan's key Bagram airbase vacated by the US troops to it.

Syrian refugees suffered abuse, torture upon return: Amnesty

BEIRUT

A NUMBER of Syrian refugees who returned home have been subjected to detention, disappearance and torture at the hands of Syrian security forces, proving that it still isn't safe to return to any part of the country, Amnesty International said on Tuesday.

In a report entitled 'You're going to your death,' the rights group documented what it said were violations committed by Syrian intelligence officers against 66 returnees, including 13 children between 2017 and 2021. Among those were five cases in which detainees died in custody after returning to the wartorn country, while the fate of 17 forcibly disappeared people remains unknown.

The report strongly counters claims that parts of Syria were now safe to return to. It criticises Denmark, Sweden and Turkey specifically for restricting protection and putting pressure on refugees from Syria to go home. In Lebanon and Turkey, where many refugees face dire living conditions and discrimination, governments have put increasing pressure on Syrians to return. Turkey has reportedly forcibly deported many Syrians in the last two years — expulsions that reflect rising anti-refugee sentiment in a country that once flung open its borders to millions of Syrians fleeing civil war. AP

Myanmar oppn calls for uprising

BANGKOK

THE main underground group coordinating resistance to Myanmar's military government issued a sweeping call for a nationwide uprising on Tuesday, raising the prospect of spiraling unrest. The National Unity Government, which views itself as a shadow government, was established by elected legislators who were barred from taking their seats when the military seized power.

The group's acting president Duwa Lashi La declared what he called a "state of emergency" and called for revolt "in every village, town and city in the entire country at the same time." A video of his speech was posted on Facebook.

Some 1,000 civilians have been killed in the seven months of clashes that followed the army takeover.

A spokesman for the ruling military downplayed the call for renewed protests. Maj. Gen. Zaw Min Tun blamed exile media for exaggerating the opposition's strength, in a statement posted on the Telegram app by state television MRTV.

Myanmar's military seized power in February from the elected government of Aung San Suu Kyi. The country has been wracked by unrest ever since, with a low-level insurrection in many urban areas. The shadow government's prime minister, Mahn Winn Khaing Thann, said in a separate statement posted online that the move was taken due to 'changing circumstances' that required the complete abolition of the ruling military regime. He did not elaborate. AP

Assault on YouTuber: 155 suspects released

Lahore: Police have released 155 suspects, arrested for their alleged involvement in the sexual assault of a YouTuber girl on Independence Day at the historic Minar-i-Pakistan, after the victim and her team members could not recognise them during an identification parade, a Punjab government official said on Tuesday. The incident, which sparked nationwide outrage and drew international condemnation, took place on August 14 when hundreds were celebrating Pakistan's Independence Day at Azadi Chowk. Videos show hundreds of young men can be seen throwing the girl in the air for fun, dragging her, tearing her clothes and molesting her. Politicians and members of civil society have strongly condemned what many of them called "sexual terrorism". PTI

Anti-Muslim monk released from prison

Bangkok: A nationalist Buddhist monk in Myanmar notorious for anti-Muslim remarks was freed from prison after charges that he tried to stir up disaffection against the country's previous civilian government were dropped. The monk, Wirathu, became prominent in 2012 after deadly riots broke out between Buddhists and ethnic minority Rohingya Muslims in the western state of Rakhine. He founded a nationalist organisation that was accused of inciting violence against Muslims. Muslims from other ethnic groups and in other areas also faced disrespect and occasional violence after Wirathu launched his campaign. Time Magazine called Wirathu 'The Face of Buddhist Terror' in a cover story in 2013. AP

LONG ROAD AHEAD

Two decades after 9/11, Muslims still fighting bias

NEW YORK

A CAR passed, the driver's window rolled down and the man spat an epithet at two little girls wearing their hijabs: 'Terrorist!'

It was 2001, mere weeks after the twin towers at the World Trade Centr? fell, and 10-year-old Shahana Hanif and her younger sister were walking to the local mosque from their Brooklyn home. Unsure, afraid, the girls ran.

As the 20th anniversary of the September 11 terror attacks approaches, Hanif can still recall the shock of the moment, her confusion over how anyone could look at her, a child, and see a threat. "It's not a nice, kind word. It means violence, it means dangerous. It is meant to shock whoever ... is on the receiving end of it," she says.

But the incident also spurred a determination to speak out for herself and others that has helped get her to where she is today: a community organiser strongly favoured to win a seat on the New York City Council in the upcoming municipal election.

Like Hanif, other young American Muslims have grown up under the shadow of 9/11. Many have faced hostility and surveillance, mistrust and suspicion, questions about their Muslim faith and doubts over their Americanness. They've also found ways forward, ways to fight back against bias, to organize, to craft nuanced personal narratives about their identities. In the process, they've built bridges, challenged stereotypes and carved out new spaces for themselves.

"There is this sense of being Muslim as a kind of important identity marker, regardless of your relationship with Islam as a faith," says Eman Abdelhadi, a sociologist. "That's been one of the effects in people's lives."

A poll by The Associated Press-NORC Center for Public Affairs Research conducted ahead of the 9/11 anniversary found that 53% of Americans have unfavorable views toward Islam, compared with 42% who have favorable ones. This stands in contrast to Americans' opinions about Christianity and Judaism, for which most respondents expressed favorable views. AP

People take part in a demonstration to support Brazilian President Jair Bolsonaro amid Brazil's Independence Day, in Sao Paulo on Tuesday | AFP

On Brazil national day, rallies for and against Bolsonaro

BRASÍLIA

TENS of thousands of demonstrators flooded the streets in Brazil Tuesday in a show of support on independence day for President Jair Bolsonaro, who is locked in an all-out political battle with institutions like the Supreme Court (SC).

Anti-Bolsonaro protesters also gathered for huge demonstrations across the country, making the annual national day festivities a high-risk event, with just over a year to go to elections that polls currently put the far-right president on track to lose.

Bolsonaro, whose popularity is at an all-time low, is seeking to fire up his base and flex his political muscle in the face of a flagging economy, soaring unemployment and inflation, and a series of investigations targeting him and his inner circle. With hardline supporters urging a military intervention to give Bolsonaro unfettered power, there are fears the day's rallies could turn violent, with echoes of the January 6 attack on the US Capitol in support of former president Donald Trump — to whom Bolsonaro is often compared.

"This is a day for the Brazilian people, who will tell us which way to go," Bolsonaro said in brief comments outside the presidential residence, where he kicked off the day's events presiding over a flag-raising ceremony and military show of strength complete with Air Force flyover, paratroop landing and special forces display.

"Our country can't continue to be held hostage by one or two people," said the former army captain. "I'm going to keep playing within the four lines (of the constitution). But from now on, I'm not going to let one or two other people play outside them."

> This is a day for the Brazilian people, who will tell us which way to go. Our country can't continue to be held hostage by one or two people. I'm going to keep playing within the four lines (of the constitution)
>
> Jair Bolsonaro

That was an apparent reference to SC Justices Alexandre de Moraes and Luis Roberto Barroso, whom Bolsonaro accuses of attacking him and blocking his ability to govern.

Bolsonaro, 66, has declared all-out political war on both justices, including a request for Moraes to be impeached. The SC has ordered a probe of Bolsonaro and his inner circle over allegations of systematically spreading fake news from within the government. The president also faces a Senate inquiry into his government's widely criticised handling of Covid, which has claimed more than 5,80,000 lives in Brazil, second only to the US.

Bolsonaro attended rallies in both Brasilia and economic capital Sao Paulo on Tuesday, which marks 199 years since Brazil declared independence from Portugal. AFP

LIC IPO: Govt eyes ₹20k cr from big investors

Has sought clarification if RBI will allow industrial houses to participate in stake sale process of even IDBI Bank

ANURADHA SHUKLA @New Delhi

THE government is considering the proposal to allow 15% share of Life Insurance Corporation of India to large institutional investors ahead of the mega IPO of the state-run insurance company.

"The IPO process of the LIC is on the track. One of the proposals is to allow at least 15% of the offer to large cornerstore investors, foreign portfolio investors, and institutional investors as a pre-IPO placement. The proposal is under examination," a senior official under the finance ministry told TNIE.

₹1 L cr	₹20k cr	15%
Total expected amount to be raised from IPO	Estimated to be raised through pre-placement	Of the offer to be allowed for large investors

While the exact valuation of the IPO is yet to be arrived, the officials have maintained that the government is eyeing at least ₹1 lakh crore from the LIC IPO. The officials say that the pre-placement to large investors is expected to be between ₹15,000 crore and ₹20,000 crore.

"Pre-placement is a common route, but so far, government-owned companies have not opted for this route. While exact valuation can be decided at a later stage, a rough initial estimate suggests that even by the conservative estimate, it can easily get ₹15,000-20,000 crore," the official added.

The official also added that the government has sought clarification whether RBI will allow industrial houses to participate in the stake sale process of even IDBI Bank, ahead of issuing a Request For Proposal (RFP).

"LIC's stake in IDBI will be sold together with GoI's shareholding, expected to be completed by January. The ministry has requested the RBI to allow industrial houses to participate in divestment. We are waiting for its nod. IDBI divestment is crucial as LIC IPO will proceed only after that," the official added.

Earlier, the government had selected 10 merchant banks including Goldman Sachs, JP Morgan, Citigroup, Nomura, Bank of America Securities, JM Financial, SBI Caps, Kotak Mahindra Capital, ICICI Securities and Axis Capital to manage the IPO of LIC.

Milliman Advisors LLP India is hired to assess the embedded value of LIC, while Deloitte and SBI Caps will be pre-IPO transaction advisors.

Chip shortage may spoil festivity for carmakers: Fada

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE semi-conductor shortage crisis that has forced automakers to cut production by a significant margin is likely to have an adverse impact on passenger vehicle (PV) sales in the coming festive season, warned auto dealer body Fada on Tuesday.

"With manufacturers drastically cutting down productions due to the unavailability of semi-conductors & ABS chips, shortage of containers and high metal prices, customers for the first time may not get a vehicle of their choice and lucrative schemes during this festive season. Ultra-frequent price increase is also keeping entry level buyers at bay," it said while releasing August retail auto sales.

> Every dealer by now starts planning for a bigger offtake in anticipation of a bumper festive season but due to supply issues, inventory levels are at the lowest levels
>
> Vinkesh Gulati, FADA president

FADA President Vinkesh Gulati said that auto dealers are facing the most challenging phase of their business career as Covid-19 after-effect continues to play spoil-sport. "Every dealer by now starts planning for a bigger offtake in anticipation of a bumper festive season but due to supply issues, inventory levels are at the lowest levels during this financial year," he added.

Average inventory at the end of July for PVs stood between 25-30 days, while in the two-wheeler space it ranged between 20-25 days.

In the past two-weeks, PV makers such as Mahindra & Mahindra and Maruti Suzuki announced major production cut in September. Tata Motors and Nissan India are also reducing their production in the near term. PV industry is likely to see its September output fall short by over 1 lakh units compared to previous years'. This may translate to a revenue loss of more than $1 billion for the industry this month. FADA on Tuesday reported a 39% year-on-year rise in PV retail sales in August to 2,53,363 units. Similarly, two-wheeler sales rose 7% to 9,76,051 units last month, as compared to 9,15,126 units in the year-ago period.

APRIL-JUNE PRERIOD

IBBI: Financial creditors realised just 25% of total claims under insolvency

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

FINANCIAL creditors have realised ₹42,630 crore or 25.46% of their total claims under the insolvency resolution process in the April-June period of the current financial year (FY22), showed the latest quarterly newsletter of the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Board of India (IBBI).

As many as 4,541 CIRPs (Corporate Insolvency Resolution Process) were initiated till the end of June and out of them, 2,859 were closed.

As of June 2021, the lenders could recover just ₹2.45 lakh crore or 36% of the total claims amounting to ₹6.82 lakh crore from 396 companies that were resolved till June 30.

₹2.45 L cr	Total amount recovered
₹6.82 L cr	Total claims
396	Number of firms resolved

During the quarter of April-June 2021, 62 CIRPs ended in orders for liquidation, taking the total CIRPs ending in liquidation to 1,349 but the economic value in most of the cases had eroded even before the insolvency resolution process kicked off. "About 75% of the CIRPs ending in liquidation (1,011 out of 1,349) were earlier with the Board for Industrial and Financial Reconstruction and/ or defunct. These corporate debtors had assets, on average, valued at around 7% of the outstanding debt amount," the newsletter added.

A total of 36 CIRPs, including the Videocon group, yielded resolution plans with different degrees of realisation as compared to the liquidation value.

For instance, the total claims of financial creditors for these cases stood at ₹1,67,463 crore, out of which just ₹42,630 crore has been realised. The realisation by financial creditors under resolution plans in comparison to liquidation value is 127.94% or ₹33, 321 crore during the quarter, while the realisation by them in comparison to their claims was 25.46%.

The share of CIRPs initiated by corporate debtors is declining over time and they usually initiate the process with very high underlying defaults.

BYJU'S BUYS GRADEUP TO BOOST ITS ONLINE EXAM PREPARATION SPACE

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ Bengaluru

BYJU'S is going strong on its acquisition plans with the company's eighth buyout in 2021. The Bengaluru-based decacorn has qcuired an online test preparation platform, Gradeup, and rebranded it as Byju's Exam Prep. Sources privy to the development said that the latest buyout of Byju's could be worth' $40-50 million. This also gives the edtech leader an advantage to consolidate its position in the online entrance test preparation vertical which was dominated by Unacademy so far.

Gradeup will be rebranded as BYJU'S Exam Prep and will cater to students preparing for 150+ exams over 25 exam categories covering government jobs and PG entrance exams such as IAS, GATE, CAT, Bank PO/Clerk, Defence, UGC-NET, etc, as per the company's statement.

"Gradeup has already proved its mettle and we are excited to join forces with the seasoned team. We aim to bring our complementary strengths and expertise together to create engaging and personalised learning experiences," "Byju Raveendran, Founder, and CEO, Byju's, said .

The company has received investments more than $1.5 billion so far this year, which has been allocated towards acquisitions as well as business promotion strategies.

Voda Idea sees steady capex fall over 3 years

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @Chennai

AT a time when the telecom sector has been faced with an increasing need for enhanced capital expenditure for network expansion and upgradation, struggling Vodafone Idea (VIL) has recorded a steady decline in this metric since financial year 2018-19. Its annual report released on Tuesday shows that VIL saw an over 60% fall in its consolidated capex during FY21 compared to FY20—a far steeper decline than its rivals.

According to the consolidated financial data released by the firm, VIL incurred a capex of just ₹3,798.1 crore during financial year 2020-21, compared to ₹9,627.9 crore in FY20 and ₹11,503.3 crore in FY19.

In comparison, rival Bharti Airtel incurred a ₹24,168.5 crore capex in FY21, a marginal 4% decline from ₹25,358.6 crore in FY20. Airtel had recorded a capex of ₹28,742.7 crore in FY19. Reliance Jio's capex, meanwhile, is estimated at ₹14,300 crore in FY21 and ₹14,800 crore in FY20.

According to the telco, while it is currently in the middle of its 4G capex cycle, it is also deploying 5G-ready equipment on both radio and core.

In his letter to shareholders, VIL's chairman Himanshu Kapania reiterated industry requests for government support. "...VIL is hopeful that the government will provide the necessary support to address all structural issues faced by the sector," he said. While the company awaits the final government's decision, "it will continue to remain focused on providing quality service to the customers and sustain intensity in the market", he added.

Markets end winning streak amid volatile trade

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

Amid a volatile trading session, benchmark indices BSE Sensex and Nifty50 on Tuesday ended their 3-day winning streak. The two indices oscillated between losses and gains, touched new highs, but ended the session in red.

The BSE Sensex closed at 58,279.48, down 17.43 points. It recorded a fresh high of 58,553.07 and an intraday low of 58,005.07. The Nifty, after recording a fresh high of 17,436.50, closed at 17,362.10, down 15.70 points.

According to experts, today's movement is an indicator of weakness that may persist in the coming sessions.

"Price-wise, there is no damage visible yet but we continue with our cautious stance on the index. Also, in our previous commentary, we had mentioned about Nifty confirming first sign of weakness if it starts trading below previous week's high of 17340. Today, it did trade below this point but rebounded sharply from the key support of 17300," said Sameer Chavan (Chief Analyst-Technical and Derivatives, Angel Broking).

"In practical terms, we reckon this development as good enough evidence for early sign of weakness/ profit booking," he said.

Shrikant Chouhan, Executive Vice President, Equity Technical Research, Kotak Securities, said markets saw selective profit-taking on the back of tepid global cues"

"After witnessing an 800 points rally, the index is exhibiting a range-bound trend, which indicates that bulls could be feeling discomfort to go further long near 17450. But technically, a short-term correction is possible only if the index falls below 17290," said Chouhan.

"For the next few trading sessions, 17290 could act as a trend deciding level, above which we can expect one more uptrend wave towards 17450-17500 levels," he added.

ITC shares may gain 32%; positive on FMCG biz: CLSA

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

EVEN as Nifty FMCG index has risen more than 23% in the last 6 months, share prices of sector giant ITC have risen by less than 2% during the same period.

This underperformance, according to brokerage firm CLSA Global Markets, makes ITC's valuation compelling as it believes that the company's FMCG business is firmly on path for a profitable scale-up and there is an optimism for the company's non-cigarette FMCG business.

CLSA in a report published on Tuesday has maintained its "buy" rating on the stock after initiating coverage in October 2020. The brokerage firm also retained its price target of ₹265 (time 12 months), translating gains of around 32% from current levels.

"We expect its FMCG business to deliver 31% Ebitda CAGR (compounded annual growth rate) over FY20-24CL on the back of industry tailwinds, margin levers, and improving asset utilisation. Unlike in the past, inorganic growth should offer an additional growth lever. Its valuation is compelling with a record-high PE discount to the FMCG average (57%) and a 6% dividend yield," CLSA said in its note.

India leads Asia's tech sector; stock price gains 37%

BISMAH MALIK @ Bengaluru

DESPITE a pandemic that hit its economy hard, India has emerged as the leader in the technology sector across Asia with a robust 37% growth in technology stock prices (in dollar terms) by far in 2021 compared to China which has seen a de-growth by 11.1%, the latest analysis by global investment bank, Credit Suisse stated.

The research, which analysed the technology sector across various countries excluding Japan, noted that Taiwan also saw a 19.6% growth in technology sector stocks whereas Korea's tech stocks prices fell by as much as 9% in 2021.

India's mid-cap IT companies like Mindtree, Happiest Minds, L&T Infotech, Persistent Communications have seen a strong growth during the pandemic even as the big four IT service companies -- Tata Consultancy Services, Infosys, Wipro, HCL Tech -- share prices have rallied with a double-digit growth in stock price, leading the bull run in stock markets even as Covid derail the economy.

Manish Nigam, Head of Global Sector Research and Head of Asia Pacific (APAC) Technology Research at Credit Suisse said, that while there have been rising concerns in recent months that the semiconductor cycle might be peaking, Credit Suisse believes that the cycle will not peak until the second half of 2022. He added, "Although factors like the ongoing geopolitical trade sentiment and the resurgence of new variants of the Covid virus may weigh on the sector's results, the longer-term technology story remains robust.

SLOW REVIVAL

Despite $16 trn stimulus, countries wait for growth of pre-pandemic level

SUNITHA NATTI @Hyderabad

DESPITE the historic $16-trillion global stimulus, the real GDP output of several countries is yet to return to their pre-Covid levels.

Only 6 of the G20 economies' national output is back to their December, 2019 level, or the pre-Covid period. This, after committing a massive $10 trillion or more worth economic stimulus in the last 14 months or so. If you include other major Asian countries, less than half or 12 out of the 28 (including the G20) have barely crossed past the 2019 levels.

Interestingly, barring the US, rest of the 12 comprise Asian economies, while advanced nations including Germany, France and the UK are yet to turn the corner.

On the other hand, Asian peers like China, Taiwan and Hong Kong were not only relatively less hurt due to Covid-19 restrictions, but also managed to recover faster. For instance, while China was the only country that returned to pre-Covid levels in 2020 itself, others like Indonesia, Taiwan, South Korea, Singapore and Vietnam made it to the list this year.

Hong Kong, which faced back-to-back annual contractions in 2019 and 2020 grappling with political unrest, deteriorating US-China trade ties, and the pandemic, too turned the corner in March led by resilient exports.

However, two large Asian economies -- Japan and India– continue to struggle both in terms of recovery and containing the virus spread.

India was already witnessing a structural and cyclical slowdown for at least eight quarters straight, when Covid-19 struck last March. The stringent nationwide lockdown last year was hell-bent as the Asia's third largest economy suffered the world's biggest growth contraction in April-June, 2020 at 26% (sequential real GDP in dollar terms). The following quarter, it did bounce back with a 23.4% growth rate (sequentially), which was also the world's highest. The next best was by Sri Lanka at 21%. Still, the contraction last year was so huge for India that it's may take another two - three quarters to regain the pre-pandemic output levels.

Similarly, Japan, too is struggling to shake off the Covid-19 impact. The world's third largest economy suffered an 8% contraction in June, 2020 and though it has been witnessing sequential growth, it's yet to touch December, 2019 real GDP levels. Meanwhile, the US economy that shrank by 3.4% in 2020 -- the biggest annual drop in the country's GDP since 1946 -- crossed past the Q4, 2019 output levels in March. But despite spending over $3.5 trillion stimulus, growth pace slowed down to 1.6% in Q2. Other nations including Germany, France and the UK are yet to make a complete rebound.

The unevenness in recovery was first noted by the IMF, which in July, reiterated that economic prospects continued to diverge across countries and that recovery wasn't assured even where infections are currently low as long as the virus circulates elsewhere.

According to the World Bank, trade in services will likely remain subdued and isn't expected to return to pre-pandemic levels before 2022. The hospitality and travel sectors continue to be the most severly affected adding to an uncertain recovery. A final contributor is the relative vulnerability of each country's private sector, with corporate debt burdens in emerging markets and developing economies touching historic levels.

Pele recovering post tumor operation

Pele has had an apparent tumor on the right side of his colon removed in an operation and is recovering. Albert Einstein Hospital in Sao Paulo said on Monday the 80-year-old soccer great is in an intensive care unit and will be transferred to a regular room on Tuesday. The operation was a "great victory," Pele said on his social media channels on Monday.

THE FLAT TRACK BULLY

Bumrah's extraordinary post-lunch spell on Day 5 was reminiscent of Waqar, who used to call The Oval his home

VIVEK KRISHNAN @ Chennai

THE dictionary definition of a 'flat-track bully' reads thus: "A sportsperson who dominates inferior opposition, but who cannot beat top-level opponents." The term is widely used in a pejorative context across different sports and owes its origin to batsmen who score loads on flat surfaces but flounder when the conditions are demanding.

If you allow for some creative license and apply the term for bowlers, though, it can be construed as a glowing compliment. When the surface does not have a modicum of assistance for the pacers, it needs them to strain every sinew to get something out of the pitch and bully (metaphorically of course) opposition batsmen on a flat track.

For the latter part of the fourth Test, the surface at the Oval seemed to be devoid of any assistance for the pacers. The pitch had sported a covering of grass on the opening day and helped England skittle India for 191, but the 22 yards were to become better and better for batting as the match progressed.

So when Jasprit Bumrah resumed proceedings after lunch on the final day alongside the left-arm spin of Ravindra Jadeja, he knew that the surface was not his ally. By then, India had toiled away tirelessly for 59 overs in the second innings with just two England wickets to show for their efforts. While the threat of England gunning down the target remained minimal with just 54 runs coming in the first session of Day 5, the chances of an India win seemed to be receding too.

This is where Bumrah's extraordinary array of skills entered the fray. In his very first over after lunch, all it needed was for a couple of balls to tail into Haseeb Hameed for Bumrah to get excited. At the other end, Jadeja was not just producing rippers — like the one that turned past Hameed's bat and hit off-stump — but also getting the ball to land in the footmarks to rough up one side of the old Dukes. As Virat Kohli informed later, Bumrah was clear then that the ball – ripe for reverse swing – will not be taken off his hands anytime soon.

SPELLBINDING

The six-over spell post-lunch by Bumrah that broke open the game for India

1st over •1•1•2b
2nd 1••••2
3rd ••1•W•
4th ••W•••
5th ••••••
6th ••••••

SPELL 6-3-6-2

21 Number of consecutive dot balls in the spell

18 No of wickets picked up by Bumrah, most by an Indian in the series

With reverse swing coming into play, the 27-year-old was always going to be a handful. Former England captain Mike Atherton, who was on commentary for Sky Sports, could see it from a distance. These were his prescient words just before that delivery to Ollie Pope, which made Bumrah the fastest Indian pacer to 100 Test wickets. "You have to really watch for the inswinger because he can bowl it brilliantly. It will be a yorker and it will probably be his effort ball. He will nag away and then try to bowl one that has got an extra half yard of pace. A full inswinger, Waqar Younis style," Atherton called the action.

It wasn't quite a yorker to Pope but still full enough and quick enough to beat the middle-order batsman. An over later, it was Jonny Bairstow's turn to face the pacer's wrath. It was the perfect delivery to a new batsman: full, fast and tailing in to hit the bottom of the stumps. It was only the fourth ball that Bairstow was facing in his innings, but you suspect that he wouldn't have had an answer even if it was his 100th.

"The ball was reversing a little bit, not as much as it does in India. We have bowled a lot with the reverse-swinging ball. We wanted to try and use that option and it worked in our favour," a self-effacing Bumrah said of his heroic post-lunch spell that read 6-3-6-2.

Atherton's reference to Waqar during Bumrah's spell certainly struck a chord. Their bowling actions are different, but their modus operandi on such flat pitches is similar: bowl searing yorkers directed at the toes and mix it up with the odd bouncer. And Waqar was a familiar name at The Oval of course, having played a lot of his county cricket for Surrey when he would routinely use reverse swing to scythe through hapless batting line-ups. In essence, they carry that rare ability to bully batsmen even on the flattest of tracks.

LOOKING AHEAD

With a 2-1 series lead, India are sitting pretty heading into the final Test at Old Trafford in Manchester. They have a chance to win their first Test series in England since 2007. A look at the talking points ahead of the fifth Test starting on Friday...

Rain may play spoilsport

The weather forecast in Manchester during the course of the Test doesn't present a happy picture for the hosts. Rain is expected to affect proceedings on the first three days and may hamper England's chances of notching up a series-levelling victory.

Last chance for Rahane?

Ajinkya Rahane's struggles have often been excused by the challenging conditions, but there was no such excuse available in the second innings at The Oval. He will have to make a sizeable score in Manchester, otherwise the team management may be forced to look beyond him after this series.

Same combination likely for India

There has been brouhaha about R Ashwin's exclusion in each of the four Tests so far, but Virat Kohli hasn't wavered from his conviction to play four pacers and the lone spin-bowling all-rounder in Ravindra Jadeja. India are certain to stick to the same combination.

Plenty of concerns for England

The hosts have recalled Jos Buttler, who was on paternity leave for the fourth Test, and Jack Leach for the final Test. Jonny Bairstow and Moeen Ali had poor outings and may make way. There is also concern over the workloads of James Anderson and Ollie Robinson.

Fate of Pune Challenger to be decided by Sep 15

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN @ Chennai

THE next 9 days will reveal if India will go a whole calendar year without hosting a single ATP Challenger: the second rung of the professional men's game. Organisers of the Pune Challenger, an event that takes place in the fag end of the season, have already written to the world body but they will know one way or other by September 15. While the organisers have no problems in arranging the event — they are keen to go ahead as per schedule — the Covid-19 cases mean ATP are closely monitoring the situation.

With India continuing to record over 40,000 new Covid-19 cases, the country is in the travel 'red list' of other countries. That means if players come here to take part in the Challenger, they will have to serve some sort of quarantine upon leaving India before being allowed to reenter the circuit. The ATP do not want that to happen. If players aren't able to freely play in events without quarantine after leaving India, it's likely that the event will be scratched.

"Another 10 days and we will know for sure whether that event will take place or not," is how a person in the know put it. "The deadline is September 15. One way or another, that's the deadline." If, as expected, the Challenger doesn't go ahead it will be the first time that India will have not hosted a single event across both the ATP World Tour, highest rung of the men's game, and the Challenger this century. This isn't an ideal situation to be in as players have now had to base themselves in Europe to pick up priceless ranking points. "It's a big blow to the players, there is no denying that," Nandan Bal, AITA's selection committee chairman, said. "Basing yourselves in Europe, where there are a lot of competitions and Challengers, throughout the year is tough as it's hard on the pocket."

A familiar accusation is that there is no money in the sport and corporates haven't come forward. While that may be true, the extraordinary circumstances — Bal feels — will have to be taken into account. "This (a dearth of Challengers) is only for the last few years. Before that events did take place in the country." That's true.

After zero events in 2013, India hosted five in 2014. That gradually dropped to one in 2020 as Covid-19 played havoc with the schedule. "All other factors being well, one would expect the no of Challengers to pick up once the situation is back to normal," Bal said.

In more worrying news, it looks likely that next year's Pune Open, India's only ATP World Tour meet, may be postponed or cancelled. As reported by this daily a few weeks ago, it's looking like a doubtful starter.

More paddlers to join Sonepat camp

AYANTAN CHOWDHURY @ New Delhi

THE table tennis national camp underway in Sonepat will see additional players soon. The Sports Authority of India approved the names sent by TTFI in both men's and women's sections. Apart from them, three sparring players have joined on Tuesday.

Initially, the plan was to have six players in both men and women's section but the final number of players was quite less. Currently four men and only three women are at the camp, which, considering it to be a national camp, is quite low. Among men, A Sharath Kamal, Manav Thakkar, Sanil Shetty and Anthony Amalraj are there while G Sathiyan and Harmeet Desai will join on September 11 and 9 respectively. In the women's section, currently Sreeja Akula, Ayhika Mukherjee and Archana G Kamath are there with Madhurika Patkar, Takeme Sarkar and Krittwika Sinha Roy set to join in the coming days. Manika Batra will not join after informing the federation.

With so few players, TTFI and the players and coaches in the camp asked for additional sparring partners and three Delhi-based paddlers Adarsh Om Chhetri, Sudhanshu Grover and Lalruatsanga Hmar joined on Tuesday. They were included at cost to the federation.

I deserve Dronacharya award: Kuldeep

FIROZ MIRZA @ Chennai

IMAGES of coach Kuldeep Malik carrying wrestler Sakshi Malik on his shoulders after the latter pocketed 58kg bronze in the 2016 Rio Olympics have been etched in the memories of many even after five years. By doing so, Sakshi had become the first Indian woman wrestler to win an Olympic medal. She was fittingly awarded Khel Ratna Award for her feat in the same year.

Ironically, the coach has not been bestowed with Dronacharya Award even after applying for the same for the past five years. In these five years, he has coached umpteen number of women wrestlers, who had won medals in the Commonwealth Games, Asian Games and World Championships, apart from qualifying for Tokyo 2020. The reason: Kuldeep had received Dhyanchand Award for his sporting achievements in 2010. The eligibility criteria say the recipient of the Dhyanchand Award will not be eligible to apply for Dronacharya Award.

"I was awarded Dhyanchand Award for my sporting achievements as I not only competed for the country in the 1988 Seoul Olympics but also won medals in international events like Asian and Commonwealth Championships. In nationals, I had won three gold, as many silver and two bronze medals," Kuldeep told this daily.

He has been coach the national women's team since 2013. During his tenure as the coach, women wrestlers have won a hatful of medals in the 2014 and 2018 CWG and Asian Games. They also won worlds medals, apart from finishing on the podium in several international meets.

"I deserve Dronacharya. Till 2001, lifetime Arjuna Award was conferred but it was rechristened as Dhyanchand Award the next year and I was given the same, recognising my services to the country. However, the criteria mean I cannot be awarded now as a coach no matter how many medallists I produce. I had written to the secretary of the sports last year while applying for the award but to no avail. I have applied for the award this year again for the sixth consecutive time. I hope they consider my candidature this time," he said.

Minister-in-charge for Youth Affairs and Sports will be the competent authority for the relaxation of any clause, provided there are sufficient reasons (to be recorded in writing) for doing so, read the criteria.

Djokovic battles into QF

AFP @ New York

NOVAK Djokovic struggled but advanced within three matches of completing the first men's singles calendar-year Grand Slam in 52 years on Monday by outlasting American Jenson Brooksby at the US Open.

Djokovic rallied past 99th-ranked Brooksby 1-6, 6-3, 6-2, 6-2 to book a quarterfinal encounter with Italian sixth seed Matteo Berrettini in a rematch of July's Wimbledon final.

Tokyo Olympic champions Alexander Zverev and Belinda Bencic advanced with straight-set triumphs, as did British 18-year-old qualifier Emma Raducanu.

German fourth seed Zverev stretched his win streak to 15 matches.

T20 WC squad: Shocks unlikely

ENS @ Chennai

INDIA are set to announce their squad for the T20 World Cup, which will be held from October 17 to November 14 in UAE and Oman, on Wednesday. The selectors will name a 15-member squad and are likely to also name as many as five reserve players. Skipper Virat Kohli, Rohit Sharma, KL Rahul, Suryakumar Yadav, Rishabh Pant, Hardik Pandya, Ravindra Jadeja, Yuzvendra Chahal, Jasprit Bumrah, Bhuvneshwar Kumar, Deepak Chahar, Mohammed Shami and Shardul Thakur seem to be certainties, leaving room for debate on the two remaining members in the 15-man squad.

THE Billiards and Snooker Federation of India (BSFI) is set to conduct the national championships from mid-November to mid-December in Madhya Pradesh. With the competition being around two and half months away, the body has, however, not finalised the city which will host the competition.

"We are planning to host it somewhere during the second week of November to the second week of December. It will be in one of the cities in Madhya Pradesh and that is going to depend on the Covid-19 situation. Whichever city is better in terms of the Covid situation, we will host it there," BSFI secretary-general Sunil Bajaj told this daily on Tuesday.

And it has been learnt that the BFSI, as of now, has primarily zoomed upon three cities — Indore, Bhopal and Gwalior — to host the prestigious competition. The championship will be played in the sub-junior and junior boys and girls, and the senior men and women in snooker and billiards.

Identifying the gaps in our literacy map

The pandemic had disrupted the education and literacy systems in the world and affected more than 1.6 billion learners, notes UNESCO. As the world opens up and governments try to ensure the continuity of the literacy systems through distance and blended education, millions of non-literates facing disadvantages such as poverty, social status, gender and digital access are at a higher risk of being left behind. Realising this, September 8th 2021 is being celebrated by UNESCO under the theme Literacy for human-centred recovery: Narrowing the digital divide. We take at a look at this vulnerable population.

3.7 bn

According to International Telecommunications Union, nearly half of the world's population (3.7 bn) do not use internet. They are at a higher risk of being left out when more digital modes are pushed forward

773 mn

Even though there has been a steady decline in illiteracy rates, there is 773 million illiterate adults in the world. This is more than twice of the world's third most populous country, the US of the world's illiterate adults are in India. And, 59 per cent of these illiterates are women

40 %

WHO IS A LITERATE IN INDIA?

As per the Census of India, a person aged seven and above who can both read and write with understanding in any language is a literate. That means a person who can read but cannot write is an illiterate

NGOs seek postponement of climate talks

UK govt, which is hosting the summit, dismissed calls to delay; lack of vaccine could sideline countries, observers

ENVIRONMENT

MARSEILLE: A global network of more than 1,500 climate NGOs called on Britain to postpone the upcoming COP26 summit, saying Tuesday that a lack of Covid-19 vaccines risked sidelining developing countries.

An increase in Covid cases, unequal global vaccine rollout, and stringent quarantine requirements for more than 60 "red list" nations or territories hoping to attend the 12-day UN talks mean that "a safe, inclusive and just global climate conference is impossible," the Climate Action Network (CAN) said in a statement.

"Our concern is that those countries most deeply affected by the climate crisis and suffering from the lack of support by rich nations in providing vaccines will be left out," said Tasneem Essop, CAN's Executive Director.

Host government Britain countered that the climate crisis was too urgent for the meeting to be put off.

A recently released UN climate report shows "why COP26 must go ahead this November to allow world leaders to come together and set out decisive commitments to tackle climate change", COP President Alok Sharma told AFP, noting that the conference -- originally slated for last November – has already been postponed once.

The northern hemisphere has been battered over the last three months by record-breaking extreme weather made worse by global warming, according to scientists who have developed tools to tease out the impact of climate change.

COP26 President Alok Sharma | AFP

Deadly heatwaves in parts of North America and Europe; unprecedented flooding across western Europe, China and the United States; uncontrolled wildfires around the Mediterranean basin and in California -- all were made more intense or likely by global warming.

Britain has said it would cover accommodation costs for delegates subject to the quarantines, and has offered to provide fast-track vaccines.

"We are working tirelessly with all our partners, including the Scottish Government and the UN, to ensure an inclusive, accessible and safe summit in Glasgow," Sharma said.

But delegates who have applied for them have yet to get their jabs, according to the NGO group.

The British government said the vaccinations would start "this week," and that even with a four-week delay between doses there was still enough time to get the job done before COP26 kicks off on October 31. Prime Minister Narendra Modi is expected to travel to the UK to attend the summit.

> There has always been an inherent power imbalance within the UN climate talks and this is now compounded by the health crisis
>
> Tasneem Essop, CAN's Executive Director

Currently, more than 55 percent of Europeans are fully vaccinated, compared to about three percent in Africa.

Civil society campaigners, who play a crucial watchdog role as registered observers, will also likely face restricted access, CAN warned.

Developing countries will be deeply affected by decisions taken at the COP on issues ranging from climate finance, international carbon markets, and how to help poor nations cope with severe climate damages already incurred.

PREZ BECOMES TECH SUPPORT FOR BITCOIN

TECHNOLOGY

SAN SALVADOR: El Salvador became the first country to adopt Bitcoin as legal tender Tuesday, but the rollout stumbled in its first hours and President Nayib Bukele informed that the digital wallet used for transactions was not functioning.

For part of the morning, El Salvador's president became tech support for a nation stepping into the world of cryptocurrency. Bukele marshaled his Twitter account — with more than 2.8 million followers — to walk users through what was happening.

Bukele explained that the digital wallet Chivo had been disconnected while server capacity was increased.

The president said it was a relatively simple problem. "We prefer to correct it before we connect it again," Bukele said. He encouraged followers to download the app and leave comments about how it was going.

Three face-to-face public opinion surveys performed recently showed that most Salvadorans did not agree with the government's decision to make Bitcoin legal currency. Bitcoin joins the U.S. dollar as El Salvador's official currencies.

The government will back Bitcoin with a $150 million fund. To incentivise Salvadorans to use it, the government offered $30 worth of credit to those who use Chivo.

Critics have warned that the currency's lack of transparency could attract more criminal activity and its wild swings in value could quickly wipe out users' savings. Bukele has said the cryptocurrency would help attract investment.

IIT-R team detects changes in pulsar

SPACE

DEHRADUN: Indian Institute of Technology, Roorkee also contributed in a milestone achievement for the Indian Pulsar Timing Array (InPTA) team of astronomers who detected unprecedented changes in a radio pulsar with the help of a highly versatile, sensitive and upgraded Giant Metrewave Radio Telescope (uGMRT).

The InPTA is a collaboration of Indian and Japanese astronomers from several institutes, including IIT-Roorkee.

Pulsars (Pulsating Radio Stars) are one of the fascinating objects in the universe. They are ultra-dense dead stars that act as celestial lighthouses with radio flash once every star's rotation. This flashing radio signal or pulse has unmatched stability in its period and shape. The stable shape of their pulses is regarded as their fingerprints and is crucial for fine and precise extraction of their clock-like pulse ticks. Measuring these time ticks for a collection of pulsars is necessary for the momentous detection of nanohertz (nHz) gravitational waves.

The InPTA has been regularly monitoring a set of pulsars using the uGMRT for the eventual detection of nanohertz (nHz) gravitational waves. Among the set of pulsars being observed, PSR J1713+0747 is one of the most reliable clocks. Ongoing observations between April and May 2021 and thereafter revealed strong evidence of an altered fingerprint in this star disturbing its rhythm and clock behaviour.

The InPTA team continued to observe this pulsar to track changes. With the low radio frequency observations that only the uGMRT can provide, the team has concluded that the change in this event was much larger than ever observed before. As these experiments require exquisitely timed observations, such a change needs to be accounted for to make reliable detection of nanohertz (nHz) gravitational waves. The InPTA team suspects that this variation represents a change in the extremely strong and complicated magnetic field structure in the exterior of a Pulsating Radio Star. ENS

In world 1st, Cuba starts jabs for toddlers

MEDICINE

HAVANA: Cuba on Monday became the first country in the world to vaccinate children from the age of two against Covid-19, using homegrown jabs not recognized by the WHO.

The communist island of 11.2 million people aims to inoculate all its children before reopening schools that have been closed for the most part since March 2020.

The new school year started on Monday, but from home via television programs, as most Cuban homes do not have internet access.

Having completed clinical trials on minors with its Abdala and Soberana vaccines, Cuba kicked off its inoculation campaign for children on Friday, starting with those 12 and older. On Monday, it started distributing jabs in the 2-11 age group in the central province of Cienfuegos.

Last Tasmanian tiger's footage

WILDLIFE

Century-old footage of the last known Tasmanian tiger in captivity has been brought to life by colourisation, offering a tantalising glimpse of the now-extinct creature. The wolf-like thylacine, known as the Tasmanian tiger because of its striped coat, roamed in Australia and on the island of New Guinea before dying out about 85 years ago. Fewer than a dozen snippets of footage — totalling about three minutes of silent, black-and-white film — are known to have survived of the elusive beast. The National Film and Sound Archive of Australia said that an 80-second film of the last known Tasmanian tiger, which was called Benjamin, has now been colourised. The government agency handed the footage to Composite Films.

Less aid given for clean air

CLIMATE

Even as air pollution shaves years off life expectancy, fossil fuel projects get more funding than clean air initiatives, a global report said. A survey by the Clean Air Fund, which looks into how much money is given to the fight against air pollution by donor governments and philanthropic organisations, found that air quality is low on the list of funding priorities. Less than 1% of development spending and under 0.1% of philanthropic grants worldwide went towards cleaner air, fund executive director Jane Burston told AFP. "It just doesn't match the scale of the problem," she said. Both the UN and the WHO cite air pollution as one of the world's most lethal environmental problems, responsible for millions of deaths.

Indian heatwave hotspots

CLIMATE

North-Western, Central, and south-central Indian regions are the new hotspots of intense heatwave (HW) events over the past fifty years said a study. It also highlighted the need for developing action plans in the three heatwave hotspot regions with a focus on vulnerabilities among the inhabitants. There was a shift in the spatio-temporal trend of HWs from the eastern Gangetic region of WB and Bihar to North-Western, Central and further to the south-central regions of India. An alarming southward expansion and a spatial surge in severe HWs in the last few decades was noticed. This may risk more people of heat stress in a region already noted for high humidity and a low difference in the maximum and minimum daily temperatures. The team of researchers was from Banaras Hindu University. ENS

DUCK DUCK GO

Duck stuns scientists with the ability to parrot human speech

NATURE

PARIS: Move over parrots: scientists have stumbled across an impersonating bird whose repertoire goes well beyond demanding a cracker.

An Australian musk duck was able to memorise and reproduce sounds and speech — imitating the noise of a door slamming and someone muttering the phrase "You bloody fool". Biologist Carel ten Cate says he found it "hard to believe" when he discovered a claim that musk ducks could parrot human speech.

But he decided to go hunting to see if it was true. Hours of searching through archives brought him to an eerie 1987 recording of "Ripper" — a hand-raised specimen who was four years old at the time and living on the Tidbinbilla Nature Reserve, near Canberra.

"You bloody foo," the duck says, over and over, dropping the "l", which is apparently hard for ducks to articulate.

The sounds accompanied Ripper's mating display, according to the study published Monday in the journal Philosophical Transactions of the Royal Society B. A male musk duck usually fends off competitors with repetitive sounds accompanied by kicking, while "the tail is kept in different positions".

Peter Fullagar, who made the recordings, would deliberately "enrage" the duck by approaching the cage, the report said. Ripper would begin his dance — but then quack out the insult instead of making ordinary duck noises.

Fullagar also recorded Ripper imitating the sound of a light door slamming. Sonogram analysis revealed the sound to be strikingly similar to one made by a screen door next to the sink.

Ten Cate says the fact that Ripper reproduced sounds he most likely heard when he was young is a key finding of the research. "Vocal learning of the type shown by Ripper was thought only to be present in songbirds, hummingbirds and parrots," he said.

Elephants vocalise too

Research collected from adult African elephants in Botswana, South Africa, Germany and Austria explored their ability to reproduce specific trumpeting and snorting sounds on cue.

A male named Jabu who began learning to vocalise on cue when he was a calf was able to produce seven distinct sounds on cue with nearly one hundred percent accuracy.

The other elephants who learnt in adulthood still managed to respond correctly over 80 percent of the time, suggesting a "complex level" of vocal on-cue learning in the species, the study says.

FIGHTING FEAR, FINDING FREEDOM

As the hope of return and recovery dims, Afghans living in South India are left with anguish and anxiety, watching the fate of their beloved homeland being rewritten by the Taliban

ROSHNE BALASUBRAMANIAN, ANUPAMA MILI, SANATH PRASAD, SHREYA VERONICA, VIDYA IYENGAR

Life in Afghanistan will never be back to normal again, laments Abdul Malik*, an Afghan researcher at Kerala University, Thiruvananthapuram. As the world seems to be coming face to face with this realisation, with the return of the Taliban to a land that has faced terror and turbulence for too long, the truth hits harder for Afghans far from home. With their country setting the clock back by two decades, 'home' will never be the same for the generation that took wing in the pursuit of unrestrained dreams.

Fear strikes

Abdul, living in Kerala since 2019, thinks going back home might remain a dream forever. While the situation in the Bamiyan Province, where he hails from, is not as bad as in Kabul, he says there is still reason to be scared. "People everywhere are scared of the Taliban regime. The Taliban is now in Afghanistan, and it is a reality. Though they are saying that they are there for everyone, they are targeting everyone. People are afraid for their future and somehow want to leave the country, which is very difficult at this point," he says.

"'The Taliban has mellowed down. They might not be brutal anymore'. News bulletins and articles nonchalantly mention this; people living far from my country turning the Taliban surge into a dinner-table conversation is amusing. What is mellow? What is not brutal about this reappearance?" asks 20-something Wazhma Hakim*, who has, over the years, made Chennai her home.

"I've always missed my family. But what usually keeps you going is the fact that they are safe wherever they are. Now, with the Taliban takeover, that thought has broken into pieces and I have been having sleepless nights," shares Abed Khan*, who is pursuing his Masters degree in Chennai. The 21-year-old's voice quivers in fear as he struggles to talk to us about his life and memories of home. "I have been living in anxiety since I heard of the Taliban's advance. I fear for my life, my family's safety. Isn't it a curse when you can't reveal your identity even though you are 2,000-odd kilometres away?" he questions, breaking down.

The first thing Hakim Khan Hoshmand did after hearing about the Taliban taking over city after city on the way to the capital was to call home. According to the BTech student in Bengaluru, over 25 students are staying at the hostel, and all of them were collectively shocked. He was among the many who had planned on going back to the country soon. "My parents have gone into hiding because my brother worked for the government and the Taliban is after him," shares the 23-year-old.

A past of trauma

Wazhma, who calls Chennai her temporary haven, says she had planned to return home to provide a better life for her maamaan (mother), who had raised her single-handedly amid all that turbulence. But, she hasn't spoken to her mother since July, for it was no longer deemed safe. "The last words from her to me were Bia ba milaawegu, dear (See you later, dear). But when is 'later'?" While Wazhma had led her entire life in US-occupied Afghanistan, her mother had witnessed the worst of the Taliban's regime. "She was one of the many from her generation who was affected by the Taliban's views. She has, growing up, seen women and girls stoned and lashed, she's been confined to her home, she was denied (the freedom) to walk outside, and is also a survivor of sexual assault by the Taliban. She continues to live with the trauma. But, she gave me wings, and now I am here, doing what I love. But I don't have a lot of hope. I don't think I will meet her again. I fear for her life, but I don't want to go back," she says, almost tearing up.

Abed had dreamed of returning home and setting up a school for girls in Kabul or Kandahar. But, Abdul reports that his 35-year-old sister is already out of her teaching job.

Though it's been two decades since the Taliban rule, the country had been the site of frequent attacks and gradual assimilation by the terror organisation. This has scarred many from this generation of peace too. Riitesh Panndya, while not an Afghan and now far removed from its uncertain future, finds himself reliving his direct encounters with the Taliban when he had been employed in Afghanistan. The Bengaluru-based entrepreneur was in the restroom of his house in Kabul on the night of May 2, 2012, when he heard two explosions. His bedroom window had given way on the impact, and the neighbourhood was fraught with screams and the sound of bullets. All this had been a mere 15 days after the tech company he worked for (in the vicinity of many embassies) was attacked. "Thirty people attacked our compound. It started at 6.30 am and went on till afternoon. The security guards of our expat housing community were killed," he shares. Riitesh could never enter the bedroom again; he took to sleeping on the couch. While he came back home soon after, he is one of the few in his circles who has an accurate idea of how bad things can get for his Afghani friends.

Abed is petrified. "My family doesn't want me to come back. They said, 'Home is not home'. Rocket blast, explosion, terror attacks…all I can do is pray."

Home in hazard

Just days before the Taliban marched in, Hamid Bharaam returned to Kabul, his hometown, after completing his post-graduation in Mass Communication from Hyderabad's EFLU (English and Foreign Languages University). He had hoped to pursue a career in journalism. Now, it doesn't seem plausible. "I had applied to many media organisations in Afghanistan. If I apply now, I might be questioned a lot as I have completed my studies in a foreign country," he says. He had applied to South Asian University in Delhi for a PhD course; but, he could not make it to his exams, and chances of getting a visa are pretty slim. He would like to return to Hyderabad, to the organisation he had interned at, but it seems to be a distant dream.

Amanullah Noori, a musician, has the clock ticking on his exit as he attempts to flee to the USA. For, when the dust settles, it's the arts and artists who take the hit, isn't it? While Noori's manager seems to have found a way out for him, his cousin Zaraha Bayat hasn't been so lucky. "I have not been able to go to school ever since I landed in Kabul. We are not able to go to the airports because the "big guys" (Taliban) guarding them do not let us leave the country," says Bayat, who is planning to go to Tajikistan with her family.

While people like Bayat and Hamid could still remain safe under these climes, things are already edging towards life or death for the likes of journalist Baseer* and Hazrat Khan Hoshmand, a member of the Civil Society and Human Rights Network in Afghanistan. A student of the Asian College of Journalism in Chennai, Baseer says that journalists are always a target and that's why he's trying to flee the country. "They are snatching the mobile phones of journalists and even beating up some of them. At the airport, I was also beaten on my back. They threatened my colleagues and me, clicked a picture of us, and warned us that they will put us in prison if we are seen covering such news. I have 10 years of experience in media. I also teach journalism in Kabul, and in this tough situation, I do not know how we will work," he says. At this point, he would welcome any country willing to provide asylum, he adds.

On the other hand, Hazrat had returned to Kabul after completing a mass communication course from St Philomena's College, Mysuru. During his time here, he — a member of the Afghan National Association in Karnataka — had been active in serving the needs of Afghan students in Bengaluru and Mysuru. Returning home, he had kept up his involvement in social organisations. Now, he's in trouble. "The Taliban first approached me at my house and asked me to reveal all the data related to the human rights work we undertake. They want to take control of the property, money, and, freedom of expression from us. My neighbours helped me negotiate with them, but they have threatened to come after me if I don't comply with their demands," says the 33-year-old, who works in the finance department of the Human Rights Network. He is negotiating with NGOs to find a safe passage to Germany or Canada, but is finding it difficult to financially support his brothers studying in a college in Bengaluru.

Younus Shafee, vice president of the Afghan Students Association (ASA) in Hyderabad, doesn't want to return home but his visa is set to expire soon. Mohammad Yousaf Khanmirzoy, ASA's president, points out that money is a concern for students.

When Baseer talks of the Taliban having no intention to offer immunity to people who work for foreign companies, social activists, politicians, or Afghan forces, and has even banned music everywhere, Shareef*, a student of EFLU, remembers a time when things were peaceful. But, Wazhma goes back further — a time of koftas, boranee banjan and sheer khurma; of going to the market with her mother every weekend, the fragrance of spices and rose petals and perfumes; of lavish spreads and cousins partaking in the casual revelry. There's no saying when such simple pleasures would be commonplace and free from fear again. And so they wait.

BACK IN THE CLOSET

ANINDYA TRIPATHI

The first time I spoke to Nemat Sadat was in August 2019, in a pre-pandemic world, where we sat across each other and discussed the future of the queer community in Afghanistan. He seemed hopeful after receiving positive reactions for his book, The Carpet Weaver, which talks about the forbidden same-sex love story of two men. "One day I want to live in my country and not be stoned for loving a man," the gay rights activist had said.

As visuals of Kabul falling to the mercy of the Taliban filled television sets, a death sentence was signed for the LGBTQ+ community in the war-torn nation. "Taliban will eliminate the gays, just like the Nazis did," says Nemat, as he deals with the task of trying to evacuate 350 queer persons from Afghanistan. In the last week of August, 175 people of the queer community tried to flee, but none could make it. Soon after, the ISIS blast happened, which made it tougher for Nemat to ensure the safety of his family and friends. Declared a 'national threat' by the Afghan government for being gay, Nemat was forced to flee his country and seek asylum.

Speaking on the relationship between him and Afghanistan, he says, "It's bringing old wounds to the surface. My relationship with the country is very complex; I was made to feel that I didn't belong there long before the Taliban came to power again. But, things have worsened again and it has devastated me, like most Afghans around the world."

"I have been campaigning for queer rights in Afghanistan for more than a decade now and believe me, things were still better earlier. The community was criminalised, had been killed, and made a bait, but we created a space for ourselves despite all this. All this effort will be futile now, as the Taliban's hardline interpretation of Sharia justifies the killing of gay men by either stoning or toppling them off of 10-15-foot walls," he shares.

Last weekend, two queer persons were killed after the Taliban barged into their homes, covered their head and face with plastic bags, and dragged them away for execution. The landlord was given an ultimatum: "You house this filth and you will suffer the same fate as them." This is just one of the many cases, Nemat reveals, where the Taliban have been conducting house raids, snatching phones, and checking messages, chats, and social media to hunt down members of the LGBTQ+ community.

On the day that the Taliban took over, Ahmadullah, a young gay Afghan, risked meeting his boyfriend. Later that day, his boyfriend was beheaded, Nemat narrates. Worried for his life, Ahmadullah crossed over the barbed fence and approached a US Marine. He was beaten and warned by them to never come back or else he would be shot — a gamble he would willingly take again.

FIT BIT

UTTHITA TADASANA

(FIVE-POINTED STAR POSE)

In Sanskrit, 'utthita' means extended, 'tada' means mountain and 'asana' means pose. It is a basic standing posture that energises, lengthens and opens the entire body. This is a variation of mountain pose. In this asana, the fingers are typically splayed, further opening the body, and the drishti is straight ahead. This is the foundation pose for all standing poses. It is also believed to balance the Anahata (heart) chakra, associated with love, acceptance, compassion and forgiveness.

STEPS

- Start in Tadasana (Mountain Pose), extending the spine upwards. Close your eyes and begin to feel the movement of the body with each inhalation and exhalation. Hold this pose for about six breaths.
- Widen your legs, extending from the hips. Place the balls of the feet firm while balancing with the support of your heel.
- Put the entire body weight on the heels; let the toes go off the floor. Emphasise on the quadricep muscles to tighten the entire leg.
- Inhale and raise the torso upwards, allowing the tail bone to sink naturally, and bring the arms out at shoulder distance. Chin, chest, naval and pelvis, should be in a line, while the arms are stretched to come parallel to the floor.
- Inhale and exhale. Closing the eyes is optional here. Notice that one side of the body is always stronger or more flexible than the other side.
- Bring awareness to each body part and to the Muladhara and Swadhisthana Chakras. Pull the belly in and tighten the abdominal muscles, if you want to hold the pose longer.
- Release after holding it for about eight breaths. Exhale and bring the feet together to stand in Tadasana.
- Inhale, stretch to repeat it again. Standing for about 10 breaths.

BENEFITS

- Improves posture, focus and concentration.
- Strengthens the heels and the balls of the feet.
- Also strengthens the shoulders, arms and sacrum.
- Improves alignment and promotes emotional balance.
- Opens Muladhara (Root) and Svadisthana (Sacral) chakras.
- Great for improving the flexibility of the joints.

LIMITATIONS

- People suffering from migraine should avoid holding this pose for a long time. Anyone with severe arthritis of the hips and wrists, should avoid.
- Those who have blood pressure, injuries in the hip joint, ankle or shoulders, should avoid this.

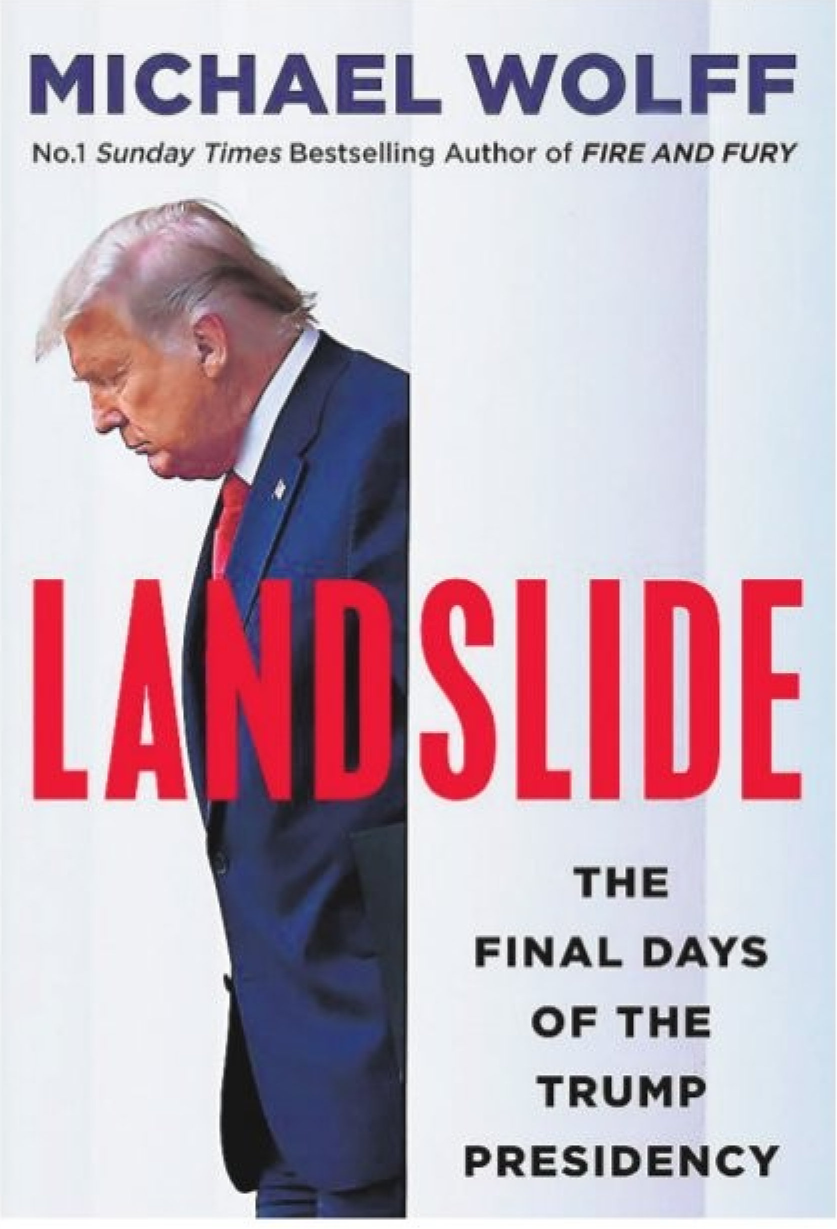
'...DONALD TRUMP WAS AFRAID TO GO ON THE ATTACK'

TURNING PAGES



MICHAEL WOLFF
No.1 Sunday Times Bestselling Author of FIRE AND FURY
LANDSLIDE
THE FINAL DAYS OF THE TRUMP PRESIDENCY

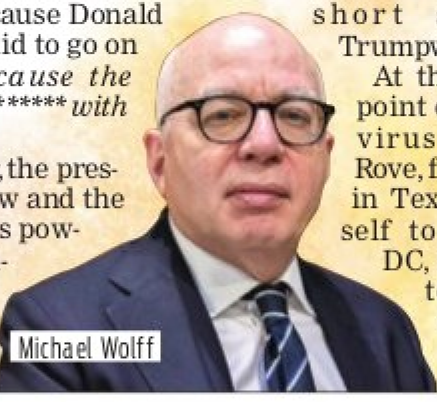
THE president had heard something that filled him with fear and brought his campaign to a sudden standstill. The 2020 race was about to enter the key summer months. Joe Biden was sheltering in his basement while the president was taking all the grief for COVID-19, and without his fighting rallies. But attacking Joe Biden, really slaughtering him as only Trump believed he could, was just what the Dems wanted him to do – so he wouldn't do it. He wasn't that stupid.

Brad Parscale, the Trump family-appointed campaign manager, who had built one of the biggest political money machines in history, a true Cadillac campaign, was seeing poll numbers sink and everything going south because Donald Trump was afraid to go on the attack. Because the Democrats were f with him.

Jared Kushner, the president's son-in-law and the behind-the scenes power in the campaign, told Parscale to make the call. They needed a new strategy. They needed the ultimate strategist. Call Karl Rove!

Parscale implored Rove to come to Washington ASAP. He had to sit down with the president. The Dems were screwing with his head. The Dem strategy was diabolical. Trump and the party needed him.

Rove was the political mastermind of the George W. Bush administration, and was on top of the Trump list of party doyens targeted for frequent slurs. ("He looks so f stupid up there with that white board," Trump would reliably mock Rove for his election night appearances doing hand tallies on Fox News.) But he was a professional, something in short supply in Trumpworld.



Michael Wolff

At the raging high point of the coronavirus pandemic, Rove, from his home in Texas, got himself to Washington DC, for what was to be a secret meeting with the president. Except that, when he was shown into the Oval Office, a dumbfounded Rove found fifteen people there. Rove had spent eight years in an office near the Oval when it was a place of formal and select purpose. This was a bus station. Or, as Trump aides, as confounded as anyone by the Oval Office's crowds, ado, and unlikely characters, often put it, the Star War bar scene.

There was Parscale and Kushner; Ronna McDaniel, the Trump picked head of the Republican National Committee; Mark Meadows, the newly appointed chief of staff; Dan Scavino, who managed the president's Twitter accounts; Hope Hicks, the president's personal advisor and handholder; and a slew of others Rove didn't know.

The president – to Rove's ear, sounding like Alec Baldwin's Saturday Night Live impersonation of him, an impersonation (of the impersonation) that Rove himself would often perform – outlined the dilemma: He had come to understand that the Democrats wanted him to attack Biden so as to weaken and destroy him. And then, when he had destroyed "Sleepy Joe" as only Trump could, the Democrats' plan, he had it on super-secret authority, was to replace Biden as the nominee with ... Andrew Cuomo. The governor of New York had been leading a popular daily television rebuttal to the White House's COVID response – a constant affront to the president.

"Even assuming they wanted to do this," said Rove, astonished by the ludicrousness of the assumption, "why would Bernie Sanders" – the clear Democratic runner-up – allow it to happen?"

"Because," the agitated president said, lowering his voice, "this is all being coordinated by the Obamas. And," Trump added, more darkly "there is a very good chance that Michelle will go on the Cuomo ticket as VP."

As respectfully as he could, Rove offered that he found this to be, to say the least, a bizarre theory. Trump, with his signature shmear of flattery, acknowledged Rove's reservations, piling it on about his being the smartest, and yet the president was dead set on believing that here was an exceedingly clever conspiracy to bring him down – yet another one!

The conversation among the fifteen people in the room – some participating, some there for no reason that Rove could fathom – continued for an hour. Should they attack Biden and run the risk of Cuomo? Should they let Biden alone until it was too late for the Dems to replace him? But how strong might he become without being challenged in his basement? And wouldn't Michelle Obama certainly spell doom for them? What was to be done?

"My God, where did he get this from?" Rove asked Parscale as he was being shown out.

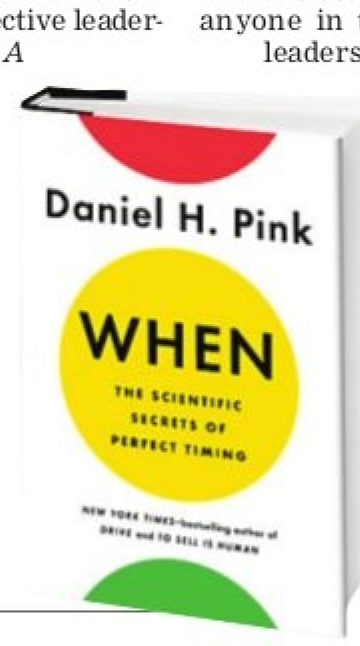
The author is a technologist based in Silicon Valley who is gently mad about books

THERE are more books on leadership than real leaders! On an average, at least four books are released every day with the word 'leadership' in the title, but hardly any of the bestselling ones are written by women – a glaring omission. The practice of leadership has evolved over the years and so has the understanding of it. Writers now apply concepts of neuroscience, evolutionary biology and behavioural economics to the study of leadership.

The traditional model of leadership has produced hierarchies that do not work anymore. The new environment of interconnectedness has created a fundamental shift, where leaders are at the centre of the circle and not the top of the pyramid. Leaders are comfortable operating at the edge of chaos and ambiguity, where the ability to ask questions, to think in non-linear and non-binary ways, is more important than having concrete answers. The new-age leaders are an amalgam of yin and yang. As Daniel Pink, author of When: The Scientific Secrets of Perfect Timing says, "They are humble but not too humble. Confident but not too confident. The very best strike that right balance between humility and confidence". Instead of trying to emulate what exceptional leaders do, we need to understand and emulate how they think. This is a personal list of leadership books that have had an impact on my life, books with compelling ideas and best practices.

Art of War is a must-read leadership book. Published in the 5th century BCE by Sun Tzu, each of the book's 13 chapters is devoted to an aspect of warfare and how it applies to military tactics. The book remains the most influential strategy text in East Asian warfare and has influenced Eastern and Western military thinking, business tactics, legal strategy and more. Another ancient guide to effective leadership is How To Be A Leader by Plutarch. Blending pragmatic advice with historical anecdotes and political history, this book lays out a timeless vision of the qualities of all great leaders have in common.



Stewardship by Peter Block, published in 1993 remains one of the most provocative and revolutionary books written on leadership, business, and organisational design, and shows us how we can transform our organisations for the common good of the wider community.

Marshall Goldsmith's What Got You Here Won't Get You There is essential reading for anyone in the ascendant to leadership. One of Goldsmith's interesting insights is that smart people know what to do; they need to know what to stop. Create a To-Stop-list rather than a To-Do-list.

Rajeev Peshawaria's Open Source Leadership argues against some common myths and that "positive autocracy" must replace democratic leadership; talent and innovation are abundant not scarce; early identification of high-potentials is counter-productive; and setting employees free to do as little as they want will increase productivity.

Liz Wiseman's Multipliers focuses on leaders who use their intelligence to amplify the smarts and capabilities of the people around them. This book will show you how to harness all the energy and intelligence around you.

One book that has had a great impact on me and I believe is a model for organisations and leadership in the future is Reinventing Organizations by Frederic Laloux. One of its case studies is about Buurtzorg, a healthcare company in The Netherlands with more than 10,000 employees but with no management and no organisational structure in the classic sense. I was fortunate to meet the CEO Jos De Blok and his talk was an eye opener that encouraged many of us to break away from the traditional structures.

To this list I would add popular bestsellers like 7 Habits of Highly Effective People by Stephen Covey, True North by Bill George and The Five Levels of Leadership by John C Maxwell. The list goes on!

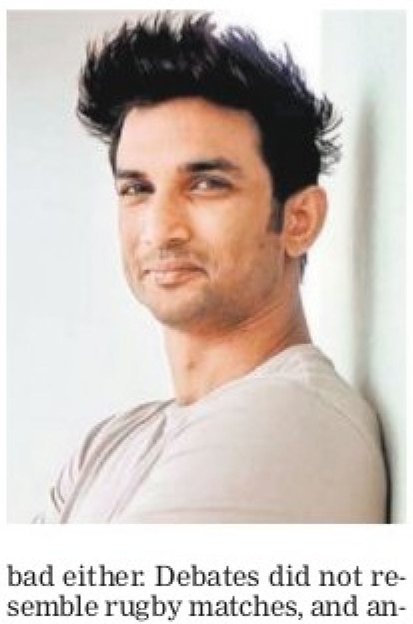
Celebrity deaths and the dance of TV news

I STUDIED journalism in my Masters, and began my career by writing articles for a newspaper. I have been running this column for five years, and begin every day by reading the newspaper. When we finished our courses, there was also the option of joining a TV news channel. I gave it a shot, and attended a few interviews with news scrolling up the anxiety-inducing teleprompter. It didn't take me long to realise that I wasn't cut out for TV journalism. The constant panic, the lights and cameras – were too much for my old soul to take. In the end, I am glad I decided to stick to print journalism.

Getting your news off a newspaper might seem redundant in today's times - with social media and news apps dripping news into your system like shots of dopamine. But in my proud opinion, there are a number of benefits to getting news from a newspaper. For one, the newspaper is not trying to arouse passions and stoke fires. The editor of a newspaper isn't shouting in your face. Head journalists aren't dealing in petty accusations and insinuations. You'll never find yourself reading a newspaper and your BP shooting up. The humble newspaper delivers your news to you, and then is willing to be used as a wrapper for pakodi.

Sidharth Shukla

As a print journalist, I have to admit my general disappointment with the TV news industry. If you're a youngster, you should know it wasn't always like this. Back in the days of Doordarshan, news was rationed out - three times a day, like capsules ordered by the friendly, neighbourhood doctor. All the news of the world was summarised into 15-minute slots, neatly divided into politics, world, economics and sports. Back in the days of Doordarshan, there was no 'breaking' news. News didn't 'break' - it gently floated through the airwaves, travelled through the antennae installed on top of houses, and reached audiences in a civilised manner. The news readers of Doordarshan had the calmness of Buddhist monks. They could sit in the middle of a cyclone and update you on the latest happenings in the Rajya Sabha.



The 2000s weren't too bad either. Debates did not resemble rugby matches, and anchors did not need to roar like Prakash Raj in a commercial potboiler. The prime minister would give interviews to news channels, and they would be conducted with grace, incisiveness and dignity.

It was sometime in the previous decade that things began to look bleak. With the abundance of platforms, and news being available on the internet and on social media, we imported western notions of news like paparazzi. We all got to witness the ugly face of TV news last year, with the death of actor Sushant Singh Rajput. Conspiracy theories, mud-slinging, accusations – it was an all-time low. The tragic part of it all was that we were in the midst of a global pandemic. Reports were flowing in of daily deaths, and there was an air of panic. We used the lockdown to become Sherlock Holmes!

With the recent death of a TV star, it is a repeat of the same motions – journalists outside funerals, and conspiracies flying like kites, and a star-struck nation lapping it all up. It does make me ashamed to call myself a journalist.

I have no message to deliver, dear reader. All I mean to say is congratulations on picking up a newspaper today. You might not have news bytes darting at you from the stratosphere – but you're guaranteed more peace of mind when compared to those who get news delivered as dopamine shots!

SUDEEP AND ANUP BHANDARI JOIN HANDS AGAIN FOR ASHWATTHAMA

Vikrant Rona star hinted about his next project, which is currently at the scripting stage

Sudeep and Anup Bhandari

A SHARADHAA

VIKRANT Rona's team is overwhelmed by the fans' response to the film's glimpse, which was unveiled on Sudeep's birthday. The promo went viral on social media, and Bollywood superstar Salman Khan also came out in praise of the promo. Even as fans are awaiting the release of Vikram Rona, it is now confirmed that Sudeep is again teaming up with the film's director Anup Bhandari for a new project titled Ashwatthama.

In a video interview, Sudeep mentioned that Ashwatthama is an interesting subject and that Anup Bhandari is currently writing the script. When CE contacted the director, he said, "As Sudeep said, I am penning the script. I will be able to share more details as and when I am ready." Ashwatthama is one of the ambitious dream projects of Anup Bhandari, which he is very keen on bringing to the silver screen. The Vikrant Rona director is planning to make the film on a huge scale. The director had even unveiled a poster featuring a warlike scene with an illustration of a person holding a gun and an inset picture of a person holding a bow and arrow.

In his last interview with CE, the director revealed that he has been working on the story for a couple of years and has discussed the story with Sudeep a long ago.

The film deals with the Hindu mythological character Ashwathama. The director will be incorporating the mythological immortal character in the present world.

The mythological character had even caught the fancy of two other filmmakers. A Bollywood project titled The Immortal Ashwatthama, starring Vicky Kaushal and Sara Ali Khan, was announced earlier. It was supposed to be produced by Ronnie Screwala. However, due to budget constraints, the film was eventually shelved. Similarly, a Kannada film based on the mythological character was announced with Shivarakumar in the lead back in November 2020. The film, supposed to be directed by Sachin Ravi, was also titled Ashwathama. Subsequently, no other details about the project were made by the makers. So, it looks like only Sudeep's Ashwatthama is alive and kicking!

Jitendra Kumar

JITENDRA KUMAR ON HIS WORKING RELATIONSHIP WITH MAYUR MORE

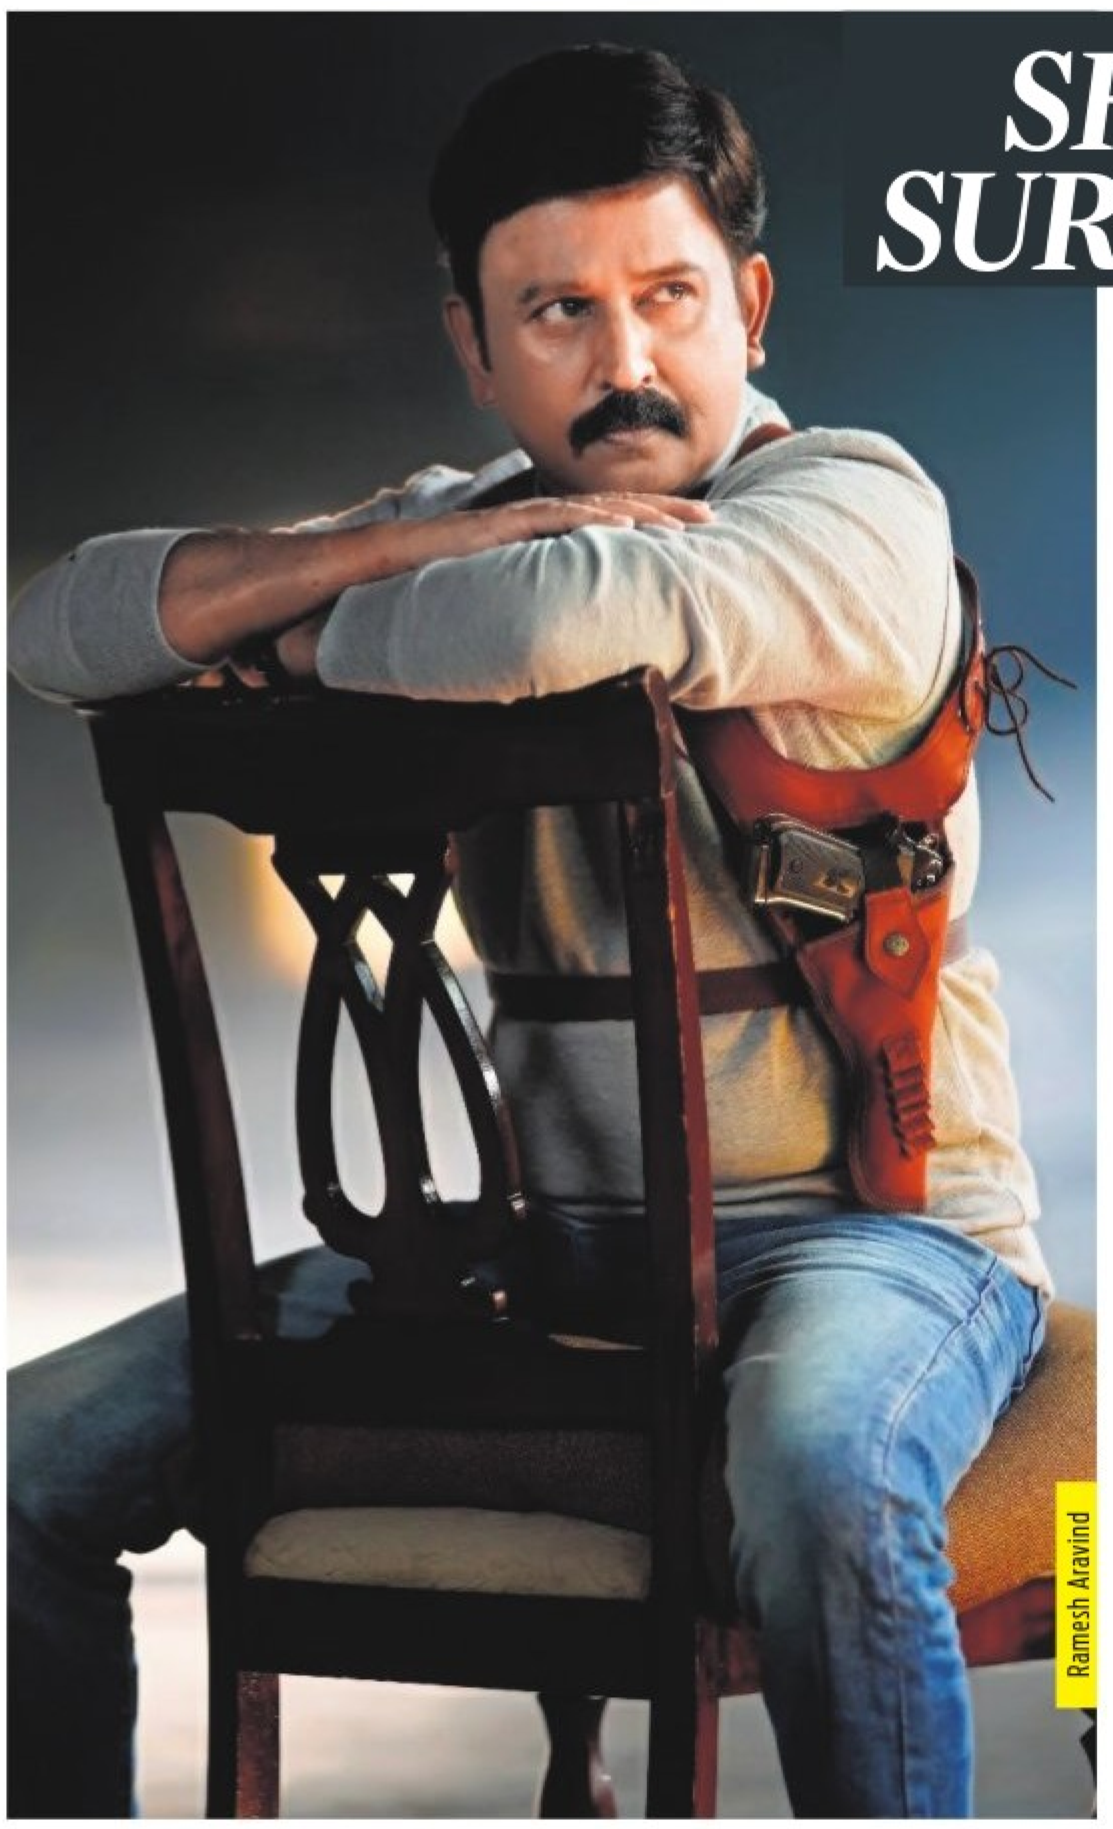
CE FEATURES

Jitendra Kumar and Mayur More will resume their mentor-mentee track in Kota Factory season 2. The new season premieres on Netflix on September 24.

Speaking about working with Mayur More, who plays Vaibhav, Jitendra said, "I work with young people, people younger than me—they're very confident. They're very relaxed. I'm not like that. I'm very stressed. I have all these thoughts in my mind. I'm half prepared sometimes and sometimes even when I'm fully prepared I get anxious about it.

When I see these guys, they look very stress-free and they have a lot of fun on set. Especially Mayur. Mayur was slightly serious in the first season but even he's in a more fun space now. So watching them I feel like someone could show me the way to be like this. So I feel inspired looking at him."

Kota Factory S2 focuses on Vaibhav as he tries to balance his friendships, his relationship with Jeetu Bhaiya and the looming pressure of getting into IIT. The show is directed by director Raghav Subbu.



Ramesh Aravind

SHIVAJI SURATHKAL

SEQUEL TO BE LAUNCHED ON SEPTEMBER 10

Director Akash Srivatsa and team has a surprise in store for Ramesh Aravind's birthday; shooting to begin in October

CE FEATURES

The makers of Ramesh Aravind's Shivaji Surathkal sequel will officially launch the project on September 10, on the occasion of the actor's birthday. The first part of whodunnit directed by Akash Srivatsa was released in February 2020 and received appreciation from the audience. It was also one of the highest grossers of the year. The success of the first part has made the producers bankroll the sequel.

The makers are planning to go on floors with the sequel in October, and the film will have Radhika Narayan, Raaghu Raamanakoppa, and Vidya Murthy reprising their roles. The hunt for actors to play the new characters is on. The film produced by Rekha KN and Anup Gowda has a story of the sequel written by Akash himself. The film bankrolled by Anjandri Cine Combines will have cinematography by Guruprasad MG.

Meanwhile, the remake of Shivaji Surathkal: The Case of Ranagiri Rahasya in Tamil, Telugu, and Malayalam will take off in 2022, and an announcement by the respective production houses will be made soon. Director Akash Srivatsa has also been approached to direct the Hindi version and is said in talks with them now.

Phoebe Waller-Bridge exits Mr & Mrs Smith

CE FEATURES

Fleabag star and creator Phoebe Waller-Bridge has exited Mr & Mrs Smith series, an Amazon Studios project, due to creative differences with fellow actor and executive producer Donald Glover.

Apart from starring in it Waller-Bridge, was due to executive produce the new series alongside Glover. It has been reported that her departure is amicable and the role will be re-cast. The duo first worked together on Solo: A Star Wars Story.

The upcoming series, based on Doug Liman's film starring Brad Pitt and Angelina Jolie, is a joint production between New Regency and Amazon Prime Video. It was due to go into production next year.

The story of a married couple who discover they are spies hired to assassinate each other was first released in 2005.

The show was conceived by Glover, who is staying on the series as co-creative producer and executive producer. He will essay the role played by Pitt.

Waller-Bridge is currently working on Indiana Jones 5. She holds a writer credited for the upcoming James Bond film No Time to Die.

'FEMALE COMICS FACE MORE PRESSURE THAN MALE COUNTERPARTS'

Sumukhi Suresh, Prashasti Singh and Urooj Ashfaq on the 'women in comedy' tag and being on Comedy Premium League

SHILAJIT MITRA

Comedy Premium League streamed its final episodes recently. The six-part show, on Netflix, cycled 16 comedians through multiple comedy formats. They mimicked, trash-talked, and poked pungent fun at each other. While audience experience is divided, the contestants seemed to have a good time. Three of them—Sumukhi Suresh, Prashasti Singh and Urooj Ashfaq, all distinct voices in the Indian comedy scene—spoke to Cinema Express about their experience on the show and standup culture at large. Excerpts from a conversation…

There was little camaraderie to be seen in Comedy Premium League. The game got really aggressive at times.
Prashasti: We never thought of it like that going in. But during the course of the show, we certainly got there. Also, since we were in teams, we could be aggressive together.

Urooj: In the environment of the show, I did get a lot competitive. I think we got serious once the scores started coming in. We were like, "Yeh beizzatee hum nahi sah sakte (we can't take this humiliation)!"

Which format did you find the most challenging to perform?
Sumukhi: The debate round. It was not meant to attack the concept of the universe. It was to attack our souls (laughs). The opposing team was determined to send us back crying.

Prashasti: The same for my team. At one point, I started using sexual words to get laughs. It did not work.

All of you lean into your personal experiences when performing standup. Is it easy to reflect your life in a set?
Urooj: It's easy to start with personal stories. We all begin with a black-and-white perspective. A guy broke your heart and you do a set about it. But then your life experiences get complicated. For instance, how do you write something around death anxiety without bumming the audience out? But that's the challenge.

How do you guys test jokes before a performance?
Sumukhi: At open-mics, I just ask whoever is backstage (laughs). There is also Instagram. Mostly, I prefer to speak to non-comics because you want to know if the audience is thinking as hard as you are.

Prashasti: I've often shared jokes with my friends and they've told me it's really bad. At first, I assume they are not getting it. But then I go on stage and it falls equally flat. Somehow, I just have to say it on stage to really know.

Thinking of that, there are a lot of people who are funny in life. But you put them on stage and they start bombing. Why do you think that happens?
Urooj: Most people stop going on stage after failing once. When you start out as a comic, you just aren't good. That's how it is. In a five-minute spot, you'll probably get two or three laughs. What distinguishes funny people from people who want to be standup comedians is that the second group will always come back.

Sumukhi: Comics usually are okay to make fools of themselves. Our lives don't stop if someone doesn't laugh at our jokes. There is both good bombing and bad bombing.

Prashasti: Humiliation is the great differentiator.

Sumukhi Suresh

Prashasti Singh

Urooj Ashfaq

What is the weirdest crowd-work experience you had recently?
Sumukhi: I did a corporate show and I was having a great time. But there was this man sitting out front. I asked him why is he looking a little sombre. "I am waiting for it to get better," he said. "Your life or my comedy?" I asked and he was like… "Both!" That day I felt like I should go back to my old job.

Urooj: Before the lockdown, I was performing at a big outdoor venue. People were quite drunk by then. I was doing some jokes on being Muslim and my perspective on it. There were a bunch of uncles who started heckling me and chanting a certain politician's name. They went on loudly and repeatedly. I aimed all the jokes I could at them but they were relentless. Finally, I decided to stop and leave. It got too attacky to continue.

As individual artists, does the 'women in comedy' question get tiring after a while? It's tricky in a country like India where there's never enough representation.
Urooj: Yes, the question does get exhausting. At the same time, like you said, no discourse is enough discourse. We are still stuck at the basic level where audiences are asking, 'Are women funny?' So the amount of pressure we have to not fail publicly is a lot more than it would be for a guy.

Prashasti: I come from an IT-MBA background. I used to think why do we need to wave the 'women in comedy' flag. There are problems everywhere. But one thing I've figured over time is that we are a vocal profession. We can talk for other women, and bring out what a lot of them are going through. So I understand why this question keeps coming up.

Sumukhi: Of late I've realized that the whole 'female comedy' tag has become a genre of comedy. Which is not right. We all have different voices. If you give that benefit to male comics, then why not us? It's not enough to just talk about there being less female comics. We are also a working professional group that's generating business. Our talent is translating into real money. It's not just a social issue anymore.
